

Clifford Adds His Prediction Of Withdrawal

Secretary Notes South Vietnam's
Better Capability to Defend Itself

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford said today South Vietnam's increased fighting effectiveness will permit a leveling off of U.S. efforts in the war and "in due time" permit gradual troop reduction.

Clifford offered no timetable on possible American troop withdrawals but top military officials including Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, have raised the possibility this could begin in 1969.

Reports from Saigon indicate plans already are under way to place more South Vietnamese troops along the demilitarized zone.

Clifford made that assessment in a speech prepared for the annual membership meeting of the Associated Press.

It was his first public address since he became defense chief seven weeks ago.

Clifford said his assessment was based on results of a comprehensive review of American policies and programs in Vietnam, ordered by the President after the setbacks of the Communists' Tet offensive.

"Results Encouraging"

"The results were clear and the results were encouraging," Clifford declared. "They disclosed that Hanoi could not bend South Vietnam to its will by military force.

"We concluded that Americans will not need always to do more and more, but rather that the increased effectiveness of the South Vietnamese government and its fighting forces will not permit us to level off our effort—and in due time to begin the gradual process of reduction."

Clifford's speech echoed the theme he raised at his first Pentagon news conference April 11—that the administration goal is gradually to turn over the bulk of the fighting to the South Vietnamese.

Under this plan American troops might be withdrawn to certain unspecified reserve areas while South Vietnam's mettle was tested.

There are now 522,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam and the administration has set a ceiling of about 550,000 to be reached this year.

More M16 Rifles
Clifford said that as U.S. manpower contributions level off, military aid—including thousands of light weight, rapid-firing M16 rifles—to South Vietnam is rising.

Even so, Clifford said the United States still hopes for a

Chickens More 'In' Than Clams

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you find no chicken in your canned chicken soup, you can complain to the Department of Agriculture.

But if it's a case of no clams in clam chowder—well then you're fishing in murkier waters.

Testifying March 18 before a House Appropriations subcommittee, Agriculture Department representatives said new regulations require canned chicken soup to contain at least 2 per cent chicken meat by weight.

What about clam chowder? asked a seafood lover on the committee.

"That is Interior," replied the Agriculture official in testimony made public today.

A reporter following up that lead eventually found himself in touch with the Interior Department's Bureau of Commercial Fisheries. A spokesman, after checking, said there is no official "standard of identity" for canned clam chowder.

American Killed In Korean Clash

SEOUL (AP) — Three North Koreans and one American were killed Sunday in the second major clash in eight days in the U.S. sector of the Korean front. Each side accused the other of starting the battle in which three Americans were wounded.

The U.N. Command demanded an investigation by a joint team of observers, as provided by the 1953 Korean armistice. The Communist side ignored a request for an observers' meeting today, a U.N. spokesman said.

The spokesman said a group of at least eight North Korean soldiers opened fire on a U.N. patrol in the 2nd U.S. Infantry Division area of the demilitarized zone.

The patrol returned the fire and intermittent shooting went on for two hours, the spokesman said. Three of the Communist soldiers who had crossed the military demarcation line were killed, but their bodies were apparently dragged back because they could not be found Monday, he added.

A North Korean broadcast said the American force was made up of "over 50 fully armed bandits" who slipped across the demilitarized zone and attacked a Communist guard post near Daiduksan.

The broadcast said "several armed bandits" were killed in the "fierce fire." It made no mention of North Korean casualties.

On Easter Sunday south of the Panmunjom armistice conference area, a Communist ambush killed two American and two South Korean soldiers and wounded two other Americans.

Another American was wounded Saturday while on patrol duty in the buffer zone, the U.N. Command said. Later Saturday, a U.N. observation team investigating the shooting was fired on.

Five Americans have been killed and 18 wounded since Jan. 21, when a North Korean commando group invaded Seoul in an attempt to assassinate President Chung Hee Park.

U.S. Army Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward arrived in Seoul today to succeed Rear Adm. J. V. Smith as chief U.N. delegate on the joint Military Armistice Commission.

Woodward, 50, of Suffolk, Va., has been assistant commander of the 2nd Armored Division in Ft. Hood, Tex.

Injunctions Anger CWA

Hope Fades for Strike Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The any possible progress" in the AFL-CIO Communications nationwide strike. Workers defied back-to-work court orders today in two states in the fifth day of the nationwide telephone strike, and said the injunctions blocked chances for an early settlement.

"All hopes for a quick solution have faded," said CWA President Joseph A. Beirne, who denounced the court orders obtained by Southern Bell Telephone Co. in Alabama and Kentucky as "preposterous" and "anti-union."

'Go on Fighting'
Beirne said the injunctions indicated the Bell Telephone System, and its parent American Telephone and Telegraph Co., want "to go on fighting" the strike of nearly 200,000 union members in some 40 states, instead of settling the wage dispute at the bargaining table.

AT & T President Ben Gilmer reported meanwhile that telephone service in most areas was being maintained without undue trouble despite the first nationwide strike in 21 years.

"Management people who are filling in at the switchboard are gaining experience, and customer cooperation has been most gratifying," Gilmer said.

In addition to the union's angry reaction to the court injunctions, company reports of cables being cut and phone booths damaged, and union charges that company supervisors were driving trucks into pickets, further heated tempers in the strike.

Executive Session
Beirne called his 13-man union executive board into session Sunday to consider Gilmer's offer to explore a union proposal. But the meeting ended after eight hours "without any prospect for an immediate settlement," Beirne said.

No formal company-union talks are scheduled, he said. Beirne, who issued his blast at the court orders in the midst of the top-level union meeting, said the injunctions "directly impeded they called attempts by the Southern Bell Telephone Co. to intimidate them from respecting installers' picket lines. "Southern Bell has obtained statewide injunctions in Alabama and Kentucky," the company said in Atlanta.

Renk Won't Run Again Until 1970

MADISON (AP) — Wilbur Renk said today he would not be a candidate for public office this year but that he was looking to the governor's race in 1970.

In 1962 Renk sought but did not win the GOP endorsement for governor. In 1964, he ran unsuccessfully for the U. S. Senate. He is a former University of Wisconsin regent.

Phnom Penh, Warsaw Still Insisted on by North Vietnam

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam has, within a few weeks, "make people believe in U.S. good will."

United States, "instead of going any place," has set two and then four conditions" for the preliminary talks to arrange a Vietnam peace conference.

Hanoi's Communist Party newspaper Nhan Dan indicated the North Vietnamese still are holding out for the two sites which the United States rejects — Phnom Penh, Cambodia, or Warsaw, Poland. The Hanoi government has rejected 10 sites proposed by the United States.

'Complete Change'
Nhan Dan again accused President Johnson of going back on his assertion that U.S. boys would go anywhere at any time in efforts to end the war.

"In a word the U.S. government has completely changed its attitude," the paper said. Johnson asked Thursday for assurances that the conference site would be accessible to other governments involved in the war, that it have adequate communications, that it be open for news coverage and that it be a place where neither side would have a psychological or propaganda advantage.

The United States had opposed Phnom Penh for negotiations because it has no diplomatic relations with Cambodia. At the Vatican, Pope Paul VI lamented Sunday that peace is "still blocked by so many questions of prestige and by an insufficient sense of human brotherhood."

U. S. Unsure Of Threat Due Today

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's army in Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces were placed on full alert today because intelligence reports indicate a big attack on the capital is near, Vietnamese sources reported.

A U.S. mission spokesman said, however, that "no alert or any warning has been issued to American personnel" in connection with the Vietnamese intelligence reports.

A U.S. military spokesman said American troops were on the same alert they've been on since the big enemy lunar new year offensive in February that ravaged Saigon and other major South Vietnamese cities. He added: "We're just normal."

More Cautious

Another source reported U.S. military police in Saigon had been told to be more cautious in the next few days and that Marine guards at the American Embassy were briefed on the Vietnamese reports. The embassy was attacked at the start of the Tet offensive.

The informant said the briefings were normal procedure that did not indicate U.S. officials were particularly worried.

Vietnamese officials at Cho Ray Hospital in Cholon, the Chinese section of Saigon hard hit in the previous offensive, told U.S. nurses there to go home. One nurse said the officials told them an enemy attack was expected late today or early Tuesday.

Vietnamese troops had been on a 50 per cent alert since the February offensive, with half of them allowed overnight passes. Now all troops are restricted to their bases.

Same Scale

The intelligence reports said the Communist attacks would be on the scale of those during the February offensive, when thousands of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops infiltrated into Saigon and attacked all over the city.

Officials reported Sunday that a North Vietnamese colonel had surrendered and turned over plans for another assault on Saigon by 10,000 enemy troops.

The colonel, the highest ranking defector to fall into allied hands, said the assault had been planned for today but some unknown circumstance had resulted in a delay.

Allied forces reported killing at least 135 enemy soldiers Sunday in six clashes within 40 miles of Saigon. Most were in areas where allied forces have been carrying on the biggest offensive of the war, Operation Complete Victory, to root out enemy forces in the 3rd Corps Area.

Bomb Panhandle
In the air war against North Vietnam, American fighter bombers returned in force to the skies over the southern panhandle Sunday, flying 151 missions.

The deepest penetration was by Navy fliers from the carrier Bon Homme Richard. They hit four trucks along a highway 22 miles north-west of coastal Vinh. The target was 168 miles north of the demilitarized zone and two miles south of the 19th parallel, the northern limit for the bombing set by President Johnson.

The resurgence of U.S. air power was facilitated by a break in the monsoon weather, which on Saturday limited the number of air missions to 94.

Powers Sign Pact To Aid Astronauts

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union, the United States and Great Britain today signed the agreement to rescue astronauts and return space equipment or parts that fall outside the country of origin.

The agreement was signed by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, U.S. Minister Emory C. Swank and British Charge d'Affaires Peter Dalton.

Later, in London, Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce and Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Smirnovsky signed the British copy of the agreement.

Another ceremony was scheduled in Washington.

Court Affirms State Power

Limits Upheld on Sexy Magazines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld today the power of states to keep sexy magazines from children.

At the same time, however, the court struck down a Dallas scheme to shield children from violent or sexy movies, on a finding that the particular scheme was unconstitutionally vague.

The two rulings provided the first test of laws that serve to control what children—but not adults—may see and read.

The ruling on magazines involved a 1965 New York state law, the movie case a 1965 city ordinance.

Speaking for a 6-3 court, Justice William J. Brennan Jr. said in the magazines case: "The well-being of its children is of course a subject within the state's constitutional power to regulate."

State legislatures, he said, are permitted by the Constitution to help parents assess "sex related" material.

Besides, he said for the majority, the state has an interest all its own in the well-being of its youth.

With Brennan in the majority were Chief Justice Earl Warren and Associate Justices John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart, Byron R. White and Thurgood Marshall.

The dissenters were Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas and Abe Fortas.

Harlan was the lone dissenter in the 8-1 ruling on the Texas case. That decision struck down an ordinance allowing a board of censors to classify movies as "not suitable for young persons."

Douglas, with Black agreeing in his remarks, said in the magazine case dissent: "As I read the First Amendment, it was designed to keep the state and the hands of all state officials off the printing presses of America and off the distribution systems for all printed literature." To do otherwise, Douglas said, would require a constitutional amendment.

Plane Crashes Near Ladysmith

Search for Cow Ends in Death for 2

LADYSMITH (AP) — A state highway patrolman and son of a Ladysmith contractor died when their two-seater airplane crashed among some trees during a Rusk County search for a cow Sunday.

The crash was witnessed by searchers on the ground. Rusk County authorities said the witnesses included a son of each of the victims.

Killed were James W. Moore Jr., 40, an off-duty state highway patrolman and son of the Polk County sheriff, and contractor Joseph M. Garstka, 39, both of Ladysmith.

Officials said the plane was flying low over some trees about three miles west of Ladysmith when it suddenly nosed into the trees.

Piloted Plane
Moore, a member of the State Highway Patrol for 12 years, was the pilot.

His flight in search of a stray cow was his second of the day. On both trips, he had sighted the animal, and Garstka waved as a signal to ground searchers because the plane had no radio contact with the search party.

Authorities said the pair made a second flight after the ground party was unable to corner the stray.

The cow and a calf had wandered away from a barn Saturday. The calf was killed later when struck by a car.

Racial Question Creates Split Among British Conservatives

Heath Fires Leader of Radicals

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Britain's Conservative Party was badly split today following a clash between two of its leaders over the racial question.

Edward Heath, the leader of the opposition party, fired outspoken rightwinger Enoch Powell from the party's shadow Cabinet, calling a speech by Powell Saturday "racialist in tone and liable to exacerbate racial tensions."

Political writers considered Powell's speech a challenge to the more moderate Heath's leadership, forcing the party chief to take strong action or abdicate to the Tory right wing. The Times said Heath acted "to demonstrate beyond doubt that he dissociates himself and the Tory Party from racism."

Defense Post
Powell was the member of the shadow Cabinet for defense and would have taken command of that ministry if the Conservatives ousted the Labor government. Reginald Maudling, the deputy party leader, took over Powell's defense duties while Sir Alec Douglas-Home assumed Powell's brief for commonwealth affairs.

Other right-wing Tories denounced Powell's firing. One, John Jennings, called it "a tragedy." Powell's speech and the party split also gave the Laborites valuable ammunition for the House of Commons debate Tuesday on the Labor government's controversial race relations bill.

The bill seeks to outlaw racial discrimination in housing, jobs and other fields. The Tories oppose it, claiming it will be unworkable. But they also say they oppose racial discrimination.

Powell in his speech said Britain should bar further colored immigrants and pay those now in here to return to their native lands. The speech was peppered with such volatile remarks as "match on gunpowder" and "who are outraged by Mr. Powell's speech are uneasily aware that it may represent mass opinion in the country."

His remarks were generally denounced in the Sunday papers. But the Daily Telegraph said members of Parliament "who are outraged by Mr. Powell's speech are uneasily aware

King Slayer Still Sought

Contradictions in Descriptions Of Ray Admitted By Authorities

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A ranking Memphis police officer acknowledges there are "a whole lot of discrepancies" in official descriptions of the man sought as the sniper slayer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Asst. Chief Bill Price referred to statements that James Earl Ray, 40, an escaped Missouri convict, and Eric Starvo Galt, first sought for King's April 4 assassination in Memphis, are the same person.

"You don't know what to look for," Price said Sunday as officers here and elsewhere continued their investigation of the slaying. The nationwide man-hunt continues.

The FBI issued a conspiracy warrant Wednesday for Galt, then updated their case Friday by saying a fingerprint comparison showed Galt was really Ray.

Different Places
The naming of Ray in the case caused confusion, primarily because earlier official statements indicate that Galt and Ray were in different places at the same time.

When Galt was charged as a conspirator in King's death by rifle bullet, the FBI said the man had taken dancing lessons in New Orleans in 1964-65. The FBI said later the earlier description should have said Galt reportedly took dancing lessons rather than stating it flatly.

During that time, Ray was in the Missouri State Prison at Jefferson City, serving a 20-year sentence for a 1959 supermarket robbery.

The age of the man also was in conflict.

Age Differences
Witnesses who saw a man in a Memphis rooming house from where the fatal bullet was fired estimated his age as in the late 20s. The FBI, in issuing its warrant for Galt, said he had given his birthdate July 20, 1921. That would make him 36. The FBI said Friday Ray is 40.

The personalities of the two waters," men are sometimes at odds. A prison pal described Ray as virtually a nondrinker. The FBI describes Galt as a fancier of beer and vodka.

There were other differences: Galt: neat appearance. Ray: careless appearance. Galt: Southern accent. Ray: born in Alton, Ill. No Southern accent.

Conspiracy
Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, who came to Memphis after King was slain, at first ruled out a conspiracy, but then the FBI issued its warrant for Galt on a conspiracy charge.

Police here have their own investigation of the slaying under way, and officials say detectives are working hard on the case.

One theory within the Memphis department is that Eric Starvo Galt is a myth, painstakingly created by the conspirators as a smoke screen.

Thant Criticizes Overuse of Violence as Entertainment

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said today there is too much violence in TV shows, moving pictures and popular literature.

"Violence," he said, "seems to have been consecrated in many parts of the world as an essential element of the entertainment media, featuring prominently, for example, in television, movies and popular literature, to the point that it becomes a daily ingredient in people's lives."

"Such saturation of violence cannot but have grave consequences in the behavior of communities and nations."

Thant's speech, at the opening of the International Conference on Human Rights, commemorated the 20th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which was adopted by the U.N. General Assembly on Dec. 10, 1948.

"Independently of international and internal conflicts," said Thant, "any observer of present day realities can hardly fail to be alarmed by the persistence or even the increase of violence and brutality in today's world."

"Massacres, tortures, arbitrary arrests, including cruel detentions of those who are already victims of various forms of discrimination, and summary executions are reported by information media so frequently that the natural human reaction of horror tends to be dulled."

He named only one country, saying South Africa's racial policy of apartheid was the principal example of "certain persistent situations involving gross violations of human rights."

Danger Signs
Than also saw "signs of danger" in the problem of the size of families and . . . and the rapid increase in world population," and particularly in "the unprecedented technological development of the last two or three generations."

"Having invented and perfected the machine," he asked, "is man going to become himself the slave of the machine or of those few in number who will be in the position to manipulate it?"

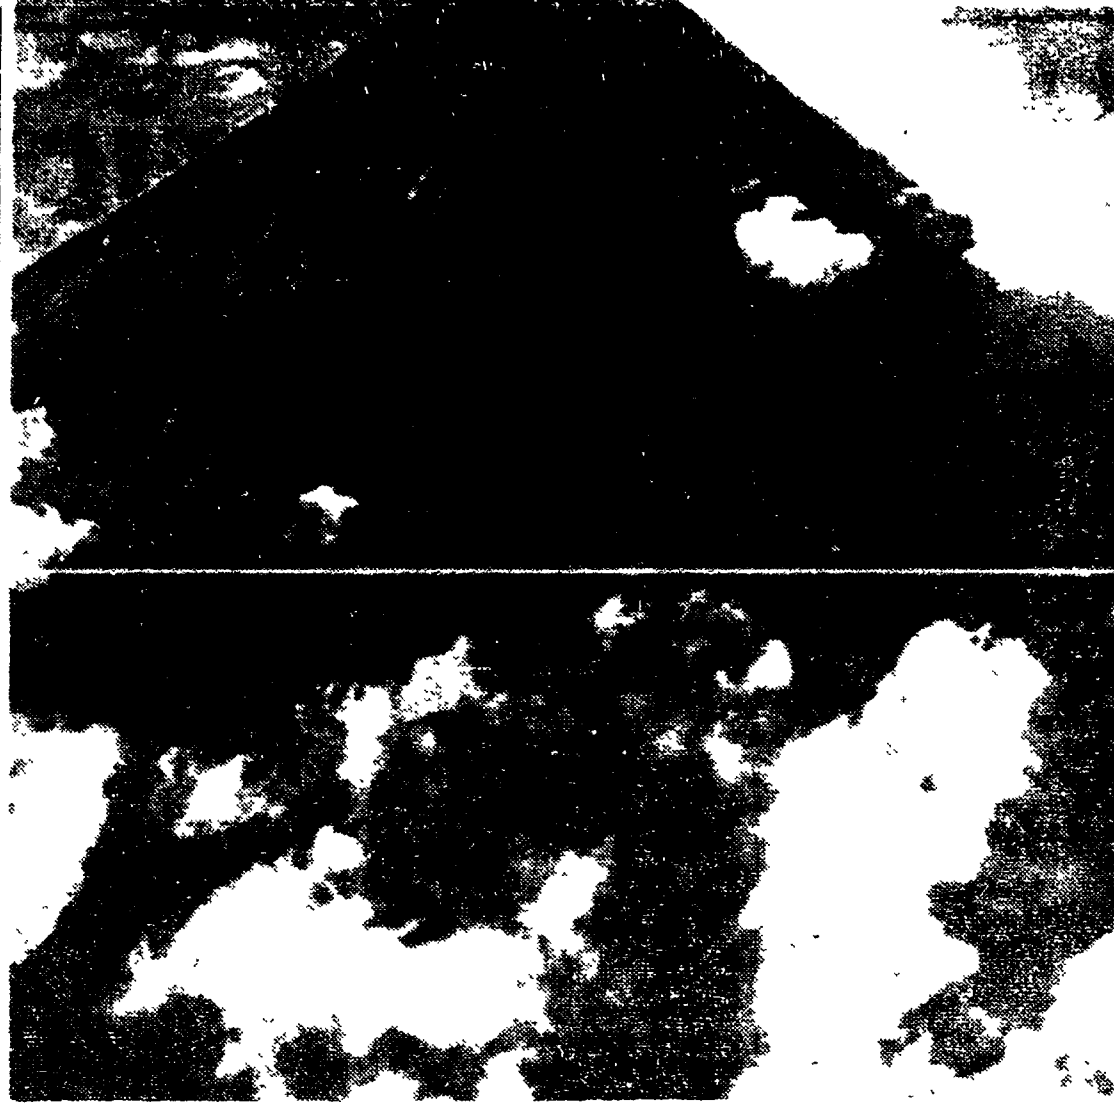

"Can man and his essential rights to a minimum of privacy be protected against the ever-present listening and seeing electronic or other devices?"

How can we escape being led on the road to anonymity and emptiness so strikingly predicted by some well-known contemporary authors? Will science fiction in its degrading aspects become reality?

Pressure Democracy
"How will democracy and the right to self-determination of peoples be preserved in a world of advanced and domineering technical development?"

Meeting in the new $20 million building of the Iranian Majlis, the lower house of Parliament, more than 1,000 delegates from 71 countries and 52 agencies and international organizations also heard the Shah of Iran appeal for "appropriate revision" of the principles of the human rights charter to suit present day circumstances

Jet Crash Survivor Wonders, 'How Could I be So Lucky?'

WINDHOEK, South-West Africa (AP) — "My God, how could I have been so lucky?" American diplomatic courier Thomas Taylor asked rescuers who found him beside the wreckage of a plane crash that killed 122 persons.

Taylor, 36, of Tahlequah, Okla., was one of six survivors of the crash of a South African Airways' Boeing 707 jetliner Saturday night. Three other Americans were reported aboard the plane, which was bound from Johannesburg, South Africa, to London, and at least one was known dead.

The U.S. Embassy in Pretoria, South Africa, confirmed today that the American diplomatic pouch Taylor took aboard in Johannesburg was recovered intact Sunday. Authorities still were searching for a $700,000 shipment of diamonds missing in the wreckage.

Taylor said today he was "much better than I should be . . . I'm able to move around without much pain. I didn't sleep much last night, but I slept most of yesterday."

The big jet had just taken off from Windhoek when it wobbled and plummeted out of sight. Watchers at the airport heard a crash and saw flames spurt into the sky.

Minor Injuries
The courier, who is based in Frankfurt, Germany, was reported to have a cracked rib, a minor leg injury and an injured thumb.

Taylor said he "wasn't able to do much because of the severe pain in my chest. I recall assisting two passengers from their seat belts and got some seats off them and got an obstacle off one man's legs. It was pinning him down. I made him comfortable.

"I heard a woman crying outside the aircraft and I climbed out to see if I could assist, but it was dark and I couldn't see where she was. I saw lights approaching and I shouted toward them."

American Passengers
The airline identified three other American passengers: Dr. E. Fussenegger, connected with the Austrian textile industry, who was killed; M.R.P. Roche and Benjamin Thomas Jr., 57, director of European operations for Southeastern Engineers Inc. of West Point, Ga.

The airline did not say whether either Roche or Thomas was the one survivor whose name had not been made public. It also gave no home towns but said Thomas had been living in Yorkshire, England.

Rescue teams had difficulty crossing the rough, roadless terrain to the site, about six miles from the airport. The plane had broken into four large pieces.

Two Kewaunee County teenagers died as the result of injuries received when the car in which they were riding collided with a freight train at a crossing on County Trunk C 2 1/4 miles south of Casco at 2:15 p.m. Sunday.

Eleven weekend deaths raised the toll for the year to 295, 69 more than on this date in record 1967.

Linda Strnad, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Strnad Jr., of Kewaunee, was pinned under the car and crushed to death, authorities said. The auto was demolished.

Dale Deda, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Deda, of Kewaunee, driver of the car, died at 9:30 p.m. Sunday. Deda was thrown about 75 feet from the car.

Six other occupants of the Deda car, all area teen-agers, were taken to St. Mary's Hospital, Kewaunee, for treatment.

Motorcycle Riders

John Flint, 22, of Duluth, Minn., was killed late Sunday when his motorcycle collided with a grain truck at an intersection in Superior. The driver of the truck, James E. Olson of Cloquet, Minn., was not injured.

A Milwaukee woman, Allie Elam, 34, died Sunday when the car in which she was riding struck a tree beside a Milwaukee street.

Occupants of separate cars, Winnie F. Nicholson, 54, of Madison and John C. Beffa, 55, of De Soto, died Saturday when the cars collided headon near the Wisconsin-Iowa border on State 82 in Crawford County.

Marinette Woman
A Marinette woman, Alma Koster, 67, was killed Saturday in a two-car collision in Marinette.

A collision Saturday in Madison claimed the life of a rural Dane youth, Duane Niesen, 19.

Marie Marschner, 70, of West Allis died Saturday when her car struck a concrete pillar in West Allis.

Dennis M. Barton, 20, of New Brighton, Minn., died Friday night when his car crashed beside a Douglas County road near Superior.

Fees in Public Finance

A few months ago the state conservation commission after thoughtful deliberation and a detailed examination of its parks division cost accounting reports, decided to raise camping fees for the 1968 season at its modern and best equipped campgrounds in state parks and forests from $2 to $2.50 per night.

Besides asserting its determination to impose more of the considerable cost of the parks program upon the users, including tens of thousands of visitors who pay no general taxes to the state government, several members expressed a dislike for the idea of unfair price competition with those entrepreneurs throughout the state who have increasingly provided private camping facilities for the outdoors living enthusiasts.

We believe the commission's reasoning was sound. We hold that it is a fair principle of public finance that when the benefits of a public service can be directly identified by individuals, the individual rather than the anonymous citizen paying general taxes should contribute to that special benefit, and especially when it represents a special service rather than one that has community-wide impact such as education, public health, public assistance, police and fire protection and the rest.

In fact, the lesson provided by the conservation commission, albeit under some pressure as a result of the budgeting decisions of the legislature, should be noted and remembered by the legislative finance committee.

There are literally scores of services rendered by the state government, and a considerable number by local governments, that can suitably be financed by a direct fee levied upon the person or the organization benefited.

In Madison there have been spasmodic efforts in this direction, largely responding to the condition of the state treasury's balance at biennial intervals. Perhaps the time has come for a major study of such specialized benefits, and the possibility of enacting fee schedules to cover them, and a test of the adequacy of those fees now charged in meeting the costs of the categorical benefits rendered.

There is an encouraging aspect in the experience of the conservation commission, if the legislature's financiers are looking for encouragement. The camping ground fee boost for the "modern" facilities, which means those that provide materials and services besides the mere right to stake out a tent on a marked site, was accepted without any public objection that we could discern. It appears that even at $2.50 the family that enjoys camping feels that it is getting a fair or better return for its outlay.

Pollution Problems Difficult

Pollution is in the headlines during these days as the public grows increasingly conscious of the problems which could plague future generations if we don't take steps now to clean up our land, water and air. Any traveler who has flown out of sunny skies into a smog-covered metropolitan airport knows as well as the fisherman who must search for clear water that pollution is something which must be stopped.

With all the dire warnings which are filling the news, it is encouraging to note that an anti-pollution law put into effect a little more than two years ago is showing good results. Since Jan. 1, 1966, Wisconsin has banned the sale and use of nonbiodegradable detergents — those that do not decompose naturally. Previously such detergents caused foam billows blowing about the countryside, leaving greasy deposits.

Mountains of Butter

Cold storage stocks of butter in this country at the end of February were more than three times the holdings of a year earlier at the same time.

The problem of a surplus of what is undoubtedly one of this state's premier agricultural products is an old one. A couple of decades of tinkering and tampering in the political arena have taught us, regrettably, that it won't be easily resolved. Per capita consumption declines, while consumption per person of alternate or substitute products rises in the country, and no doubt also in Wisconsin this year with the repeal of the ancient embargo against margarine by the 1967 legislature's decision.

Not because it will be especially comforting to our own producers of milk and butterfat, but to illuminate the problem, we note the reports from Europe that the principal dairy nations there are worrying about a glut in their butter markets also.

A London correspondent who writes on European economic topics reports that there is a new name in common circulation in Germany to describe the butter marketing problem there. So huge has the butter surplus become that it is now called "Butterberg". a German colloquialism for "mountain of butter." The butter now stockpiled by the European Common Market now amounts to 130,000 tons, and it is growing rapidly. By midsummer when milk production rises there even as here in Wisconsin, it will become staggering, according to informed forecasts.

The surpluses are especially acute in France and Germany, but they exist in other countries of western Europe also. Thus it probably surprised no dairyman in those countries that the top farm policy official of the Common Market recently summoned a top-secret meeting on what could be done about the dairy products marketing crisis.

The solutions inevitably will be elusive, there as here. Storing butter is expensive. Europeans figure that to keep it in cold storage for three years adds as much cost as was represented in producing it in the first instance. Probably the same equation holds in this country. Meanwhile, the policy in effect in general within the Common Market is familiar to those of us who are concerned about American agriculture. Basically the policy is one of comparatively high consumer prices, supported by discouragement of cheaper imports, and the stocking of surpluses. Thus output is encouraged, while consumption is discouraged.

Looking Backward
Appleton Having Building Boom

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 25, 1868.

About 40 dwellings will be created in the Fourth Ward this season.

We observe that two large dwellings for rent are being erected on State street near the Catholic Church, Third Ward. Some dozen other buildings are in progress in that ward; the estimate for the present season exceeds 100.

In the Second Ward, about 20 buildings are in progress. We expect more dwellings to be erected in this ward than ever before.

In the First Ward, as yet, but few houses have been commenced. No doubt the number built this year will exceed those of last year.

On the Right
Rev. King's Assassination Proves
Need for Affirming Non-Violence

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

It is curious, and melancholy, that hours after the death of the Reverend Martin Luther King, and one-hundred thousand words after the doleful announcement of his murder, not a single commentator on radio or on television has mentioned what one would suppose is a critical datum, namely that Mr. King was an ordained minister in the Christian faith, and that those who believe that the ministry is other than merely symbolic servitude to God, must hope, and pray that he is today happier than he was yesterday, united with his Maker, with the angels and the saints, with the prophets whose words of inspiration he quoted with such telling effect in his hot pursuit of a secular millenarianism.

Those who take seriously Dr. King's calling are obliged above all to comment on this aspect of his martyrdom, and to rejoice in the divine warranty that eyes have not seen, nor have ears heard of, the glories that God has prepared for those who love Him.

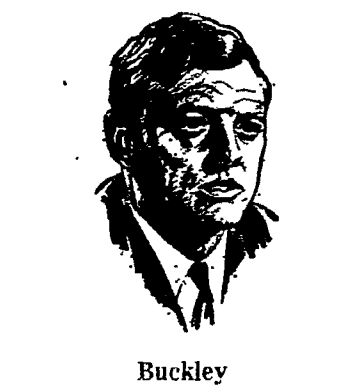

FEW OBSERVATIONS

No, it is the secular aspects of his death that obsess us; very well then, let us in his memory make a few observations:

1. Whatever his virtues, and whatever his faults, he did not deserve assassination. There are the special few — one thinks of Joan of Arc — whose career dictates, as a matter of theatrical necessity, a violent end, early in life. Dr. King was not of that cast. His virtues were considerable, most notably his extraordinary capacity to inspire. But although the dream he had seemed to many Americans, particularly the black militants, but not excluding many orthodox liberals, less and less useful (freedom now, in the sense he understood it, was a dream, mischievously deceptive), it simply wasn't ever required that, in order to reify that vision, he should surrender his own life. In that sense his martyrdom was simply not useful. Because it is plainly impossible that, on account of his death, things are going to change. The martyrdom he seemed sometimes almost to be seeking may commend him to history and to God, but not likely to Scarsdale, New York; which has never credited the charge that the white community of America conspires to insure the wretchedness of the brothers of Martin Luther King.

2. And concerning his weaknesses, it would take a lunatic (his murderer has not at this point been apprehended, but he is sure to be one) to reason that Dr. King's faults justified a private assassination. The theory to which most of us subscribe is that there is no vice so hideous as to justify private murder. Even so, we tend emotionally to waive that categorical imperative every now and then. If someone had shot down Adolf Eichmann in a motel, the chances are that our deploring of the assassin's means would have been ritualistic. The only people who were genuinely annoyed by Jack Ruby's assassination of Lee Harvey Oswald were those who maintained a fastidious interest in the survival of Oswald, for the sake of the record.

Dr. King's faults, and they most surely existed, were far from the category of the faults of those whose assassination is more or less tolerated, as we all of us more or less tolerated the assassination of George Lincoln Rockwell. Those faults were a terribly mistaken judgment — above all. A year ago he accused the United States of committing crimes equal in horror to those committed by the Nazis in Germany. One could only gasp at the profane Ten days ago in his penultimate speech, delivered at the Washington Cathedral, he accused the United States of waging a war as indefensible as any war committed during the 20th Century. Several years ago, on the way back from Stockholm where he received the Nobel Peace Prize, he conspicuously declined to criticize the Gbenye movements in the North Congo, which was even then engaged in slaughtering, as brutally as Dr. King was slaughtered, his brothers in Christ. But for such transgressions in logic and in judgment, one does not receive the death sentence.

3. The sickening observation of the commentators is therefore particularly inapposite. The commentators (most of them) said: How can we now defend non-violence? Surely the answer is: more pervasively than ever before. It was, need we remark, violence that killed Dr. King. Should we therefore abandon non-violence?

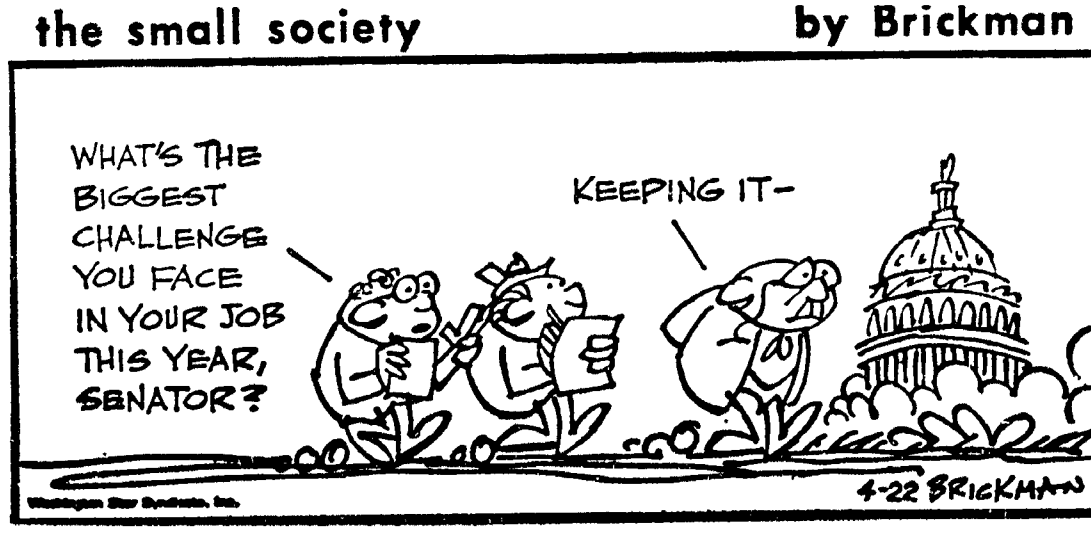

IMPLICATIONS OF DEED

Those who mourn Dr. King because they were his closest followers should meditate the implications of the deed of the wildman who killed him. That deed should bring to mind not (for God's sake!) the irrelevance of non-violence, but the sternest necessity of reaffirming non-violence. An upset of non-violence is subjugation to the law.

The last public speech of Martin Luther King described his intentions of violating the law in Memphis, where an injunction had been handed down against the resumption of a march which only a week ago had resulted in the death of one human being, and the wounding of fifty others.

Dr. King's flouting of the law does not justify the flouting by others of the law, but it is a terrifying thought that, most likely, the cretin who levelled his rifle on the head of Martin Luther King, may have absorbed the talk, so freely available, about the supremacy of the individual conscience, such talk as Martin Luther King, God rest his troubled soul, had so widely, and so indiscriminately, made.

Wisconsin Report
One Man, One Vote
Extension Recalls
State Was a Leader

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — The politically conscious residents of Wisconsin may conceivably feel some smug satisfaction in the explicit mandate of the United States Supreme Court in a Texas case the other day that the equal representation right applies to the municipal levels of government as well as to the state and national legislatures.

The reason is that whatever effect that order of the court has in other states of the country, and it will doubtless be considerable in some parts of the South and elsewhere, it will have virtually no noticeable consequences here.

The county boards of Wisconsin are now based on the "one man, one vote" principle enunciated by the court as constitutional law, and the cities of Wisconsin on the whole have been reasonably aware of their responsibilities for equitable representation arrangements for a long time. In any event, there has been no argument about it for many years.

At any given moment in a typical municipality, wards may be slightly out of line with regard to the numbers of their electors. But in the highly mobile society of today, literal and constant accuracy is probably attainable without such frequent reapportionment laws and ordinances as would be impracticable and absurd.

HISTORY OF RELUCTANCE
Nevertheless, there is no great reason for Wisconsin citizens who wonder about the recalcitrance in other parts of their country on the equality of representation issue to beat their breasts with pride.

For the fact is that Wisconsin has had a history of trouble with the issue, of considerable reluctance and obduracy, and it would not now have the fair apportionment arrangements, in the state legislature or on the county boards, without the intervention of the state Supreme Court in the default of adequate action by the legislature upon its own initiative.

It was four years ago that the state court, after futile quarrels between the legislature and Govs. Gaylord Nelson and John Reynolds, took its cue from the Baker vs. Carr landmark decision of the U.S. Supreme Court in 1962 and issued its own reapportionment decree covering the legislature.

A little later, upon the petition of private citizens, the state court read into Baker vs. Carr what the U.S. Supreme Court has now confirmed it meant in the first place and ruled that the "one man, one vote" principle must apply to counties also. Upon that finding the legislature acted in 1965, so that Wisconsin counties today are based upon equitable apportionment arrangements, perhaps for the first time since their creation.

APPROACH OF 1970 CENSUS
All of which serves as a reminder that the time for another reapportionment is just around the corner. The constitutional law of Wisconsin requires a realignment of legislative districts after the federal census at the end of each decade. The presumption is that the rule will now apply to counties as well.

Thus, the task will face the legislature of 1971, and there are many skeptics who remember the reluctance and the failures of the legislatures of the 1950s and again in the 1960s and will wonder whether the legislature which sits in 1971 will show any more capacity, or imagination, or courage.

In fact, opinion is growing that apportionment by legislative act is the least effective of the methods available. It is not always a question of partisan interest, although that is sometimes involved, as shown in the legislative-executive encounters during the Nelson and Reynolds administrations. More often, it is the reluctance inherent in human nature to take an action that may be adverse to the personal interests of the men pushing the roll call buttons.

It is fair speculation, therefore, that sooner or later there will be enough support for an alternative method to secure an amendment to the constitution to provide expressly for preserving the equal representation right through the machinery of the state court or a non-partisan commission convened decennially and exclusively for that purpose.

Strictly Personal
Here's an Appropriate
Thought for All of Us

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
It is an absolute rule of history, and of social psychology, that whenever a conflict becomes more intense, each side becomes more polarized. And the people in the middle get squashed.

The present course of racial conflict in America is a dramatic, and alarming, example. As the Negro protest grows, the white reaction sets in — which, in turn, creates more Negro protest.

What happens then is that moderate Negroes become afraid to talk moderate for fear of being labeled "Uncle Toms" — and moderate whites are likewise threatened by the militant anti-Negroes among the white racists. Extremists on both sides get in the saddle and ride hard.

Much the same happens in international relations. When the cold war begins to heat up, the temperature shrivels the moderates on both sides of the Iron Curtain. Those over here who think we can achieve a modus vivendi with the Russians are called "Commie sympathizers," and moderates in Russia who feel no good can come of a conflict are called "betrayers of the Revolution."

Moderates are made to feel "disloyal" to their group — as though loyalty consisted of blind partisanship and passionate hatred. Actually, true loyalty to a cause means wanting and working for what is best, whether this best happens to be compromise or all-out conflict.

The polarization of opposites has always been the greatest peril faced by the human race, and we can see it in the divorce courts just as plainly as in the slum streets of city or the battlefield of nations.

A couple may enter a divorce meaning to be calm and just and moderate — but when the feelings get heated up, and property and children are involved, each side begins making accusations and hurling imprecations that, in the end, damage everybody, and the children most of all.

Getting back to the racial problem, it is my firm impression that most Negroes and most whites in America belong to the moderate camp, and that the real differences between these groups could be settled in a fair and peaceful way — if they were left alone to handle them.

But the angry racists on both sides make it hard for the moderates to be heard — and almost make it seem like "treason" to admit that the other side has some just complaints. As the tension increases, communications break down, each side withdraws to its own battlements, and the haters take over.

It was thus in ancient times, and it remains thus today. The millions of Americans in the middle, who want only a decent life for all people of good will, find before they know it that their "side" is being led by men who bear only ill will toward all outsiders.

Negroes Walk From Church Merger Session

Action Dramatizes Alleged Racism in United Methodism

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Final steps were being taken today for America's biggest church merger amid tensions underscored by a walkout of some Negro Methodists from a vast, solemn service of holy communion.

They staged the action to dramatize their charge that racism remains in plans for the new denomination—the United Methodist Church.

To be formally inaugurated Tuesday, it will join the 10.3-million-member Methodist Church and the 746,099-member Evangelical United Brethren Church into a single body.

"In sorrow we perceive a United Methodist Church still divided by the infamy of segregation and discrimination," said a statement by the protesting group, Black Methodists for Church Renewal.

Their walkout occurred in a hushed interlude of a mass celebration of the Lord's Supper Sunday night in the Dallas Memorial Auditorium.

40 in Walkout

About 40 Negroes, joined by more than a score of sympathetic whites, quietly filed out as the bread and cup were being distributed to a throng of about 10,000 church delegates and visitors.

The Rev. Cecil Williams of San Francisco spokesman for the demonstrators, said they refrained from taking communion to symbolize "the brokenness in the fellowship."

Their statement said they found no indication that the united church "intends to take immediate steps to deal with racism in its structural life," or to assure Negroes adequate representation on official boards.

Continue Separatism

They criticized particularly the plan to continue temporarily in the united church some aspects of a separate Negro Methodist jurisdiction, with 1972 a target date for eliminating it.

Some of it already has been incorporated into white counterparts, but elements of it remain. The church has more than 350,000 Negro members.

The protesting group voiced concern that the newly merged church will fail to act strongly enough to ease the "urban crisis."

Investigation Ordered Into Newark Fire

NEWARK (AP) — Fire Director John Cauffield has ordered an around-the-clock investigation of a fire that roared through a five-block area in the city's heavily Negro Central Ward this weekend, destroying 34 houses and leaving some 500 persons homeless.

Cauffield said the blaze was "the worst in the history of Newark" and was "definitely suspicious."

Fire Chief Joseph M. Redden, said the fire "was definitely set."

"We have nothing but a lot of three-story chimneys with nothing in them," Redden said after surveying the damage.

The five blocks are in the area where 26 persons died during five days of racial outbreaks last summer and where numerous firebombing incidents occurred in the days following the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Redden said he doubted that anyone in the Central Ward was involved in setting the weekend blaze.

He said many neighborhood residents helped firemen carry hoses, and some even brought their own ladders into the street to help firemen trapped on blazing roofs escape the flames.

Johnson Returning to Capital

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson planned to return to the White House today after a 10-day absence that embraced two relaxing weekends at his Texas ranch sandwiched around Pacific policy talks in Honolulu.

On Sunday, Johnson and daughter Lynda Robb attended morning services at St. Barnabas Episcopal Church in Fredericksburg, some 15 miles west of the LBJ Ranch. Lynda is an Episcopalian while the President is a Christian Church member.

Daughter Luci Nugent, a convert to Roman Catholicism, went to mass at St. Francis Xavier Church at Stonewall, very near the ranch, with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Englehard, house guests for the weekend. Englehard is a New Jersey industrialist.

The President announced Saturday launching of an experimental program aimed at cutting red tape for incoming foreign tourists.

To be tried out at John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York, the program calls for one-stop processing of visitors through U.S. Customs, Public Health, Immigration and agriculture Department inspections — hopefully at half the current time now required. Johnson also:

—Signed a bill assuring federal indemnity benefits for state and local law enforcement officers killed or injured while enforcing federal law. The President called it "an act of simple justice" and urged similar plans by local governments.

—Signed into law an average $9 monthly cost-of-living boost in benefits for more than 800,000 retired federal employees. To take effect May 1, the hike will raise the average benefit check from $238 to $247.

Hope Fades for Strike Accord

Judge James A. Hare in Dallas County, ordered the union to take affirmative action to end the strike of Alabama Bell workers, including using newspapers, radio, television, mail, telephones and the posting of notices to union members.

"This turn for the worse followed hopes aroused late Friday when AT&T President Ben Gilmer brought back into the negotiation picture a proposal the union had come up with," Beirne said.

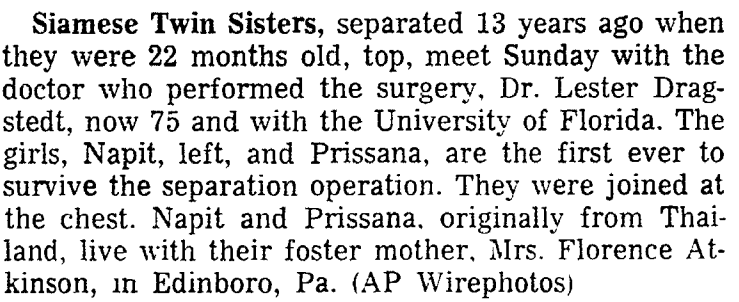

That proposal was to throw out the current 18-month wage reopener contract provision and write a complete new three-year contract covering wages, fringe benefits and working conditions. Gilmer had said earlier Sunday that company officials were heartened by union statements suggesting improved prospects for settlement.

There was no immediate statement from Gilmer after Beirne angrily denounced the company for obtaining the court injunctions.

McCarthy Extends Rusk Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy says Secretary of State Dean Rusk should be fired and says one acceptable replacement would be Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

The Democratic presidential candidate also said Sunday that Director J. Edgar Hoover controls the FBI as a "kind of fief" and should be retired.

Turning to Republican Presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon, McCarthy said it was the "old Nixon" who accused Democrats of dishonesty by promising massive and immediate programs to aid the poor.

"About the time you would like to think that Mr. Nixon has come around to speaking rather straight, you know, and using the language as he should," the Minnesota Democrat said, "he then goes back to words like 'dishonest.'"

The reference was to Democratic claims in the past that Nixon makes unfair accusations. McCarthy was interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Nixon Saturday had called promises of massive anti-poverty spending a "dishonest and cruel delusion" and said he would rather lose the election than join in making such promises.

Nixon urged President Johnson Sunday to immediately cut the federal budget by around $8 billion to ward off inflation which he said threatens Americans' savings and the international monetary system.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is quoted by Newsweek magazine, meanwhile, as saying Nixon will be harder to beat this year than in 1960 but that "If I get the nomination, I'll beat him."

Humphrey is expected to announce Saturday that he will seek the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I'm not going to be an aggressive, self-esteeming, grasping candidate," the magazine quotes him as saying. "I don't think the public needs that. I don't think they need anybody to stir them up any more."

Humphrey also is quoted as saying, "I won't be doing much between now and August. You don't improve your case or argument by overexposure prematurely."

Theodore Sorensen, an adviser to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's Democratic presidential campaign, said Humphrey had offered the vice presidential spot on his ticket to "every southern governor" except Lester Maddox of Georgia.

Texas Gov. John B. Connally, mentioned as a potential Humphrey running mate, had high praise on NBC's "Meet the Press" for Humphrey but said he hasn't decided whom to support for the presidential nomination.

McCarthy, again attacking Rusk's stand on the Vietnam war, said the Secretary of State should step down. He said Senate Majority Leader Mansfield, D-Mont., for one, would be a suitable successor.

The Minnesota senator said Hoover, 73, has been FBI director too long.

"A police agency in a democracy," McCarthy said, "ought not be kept under the control largely of one man to a point where it develops to a kind of fief, really, which is somewhat beyond criticism and outside judgement."

peaceful settlement, although Hanoi has given what he called a minimal response to President Johnson's recent bombing limitation and requests for preliminary talks.

"But if Hanoi would rather fight than talk, or elects both to talk and fight, the record of the success we have already achieved shows that military victory in South Vietnam is beyond Hanoi's reach," Clifford asserted.

On other matters, Clifford:

—Praised the "selfless and personally noble decision of President Johnson voluntarily to remove himself as a candidate for re-election this year."

—Said his discussions last week with North American Treaty Organization defense ministers showed "a better collective understanding of the role that various nuclear weapon systems could play in the event of an emergency" in Europe.

—Said new lessons were learned about the use of National Guardsmen and federal troops in controlling racial riots in U.S. cities.

"We have learned that manpower, not fire power, deals best with mass lawlessness," Clifford said. "We have learned, too, that a curfew can help greatly in preventing clashes and conflict and possible bloodshed."

The aid to South Vietnam, Clifford said, will include the outfitting of all Saigon's combat ground forces with the M16 rifle by July.

By November, he said 100,000 more M16s will have been provided to the "little brothers" of South Vietnam's regulars, the regional and popular forces.

In addition the South Vietnamese will get machine guns, grenade launchers, mortars, truck and military radios.

Witnesses Silent In Gang Slayings

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Police say witnesses to two gangland-style slayings are extremely reluctant to talk—apparently from fear of underworld reprisals.

Rudolph Mafeo, 41, and Anthony Mele, 26, were shot down by two stocking-masked gunmen in a grocery store Saturday. Both victims had brothers who were shot to death previously.

Police said the slayings apparently stemmed from the operation of dice games.

Or Peach Flambe

GEL MONTE, Calif. (AP) — The thief who stole a truck Sunday from the C.M.Y. Trucking Co. may develop a new drink. The truck contained 19 tons of liquor and 2½ tons of canned peaches.

Tony Theater Awards Have International Air

'Hallelujah Baby' Best Musical, British

Tom Stoppard Honored for Best Drama

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — An Australian actress and a British author took two of Broadway's top three Tony awards for drama Sunday night, but the musical "Hallelujah Baby!" which chronicles half a century of Negro history and which closed three months ago, was named best musical play and its star, Leslie Uggams, shared the award for best actress in a musical with Patricia Routledge of Britain. Miss Routledge was as best director for his motion picture, "The Graduate." Nichols was in Rome and did not longer playing. Robert Goulet was named best actor in a musical for his role in "The Happy Time."

Zoe Caldwell, who won a Tony in 1966 as the best supporting actress, was named best dramatic actress of the 1967-68 season for her role in "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" and Tom

Stoppard won the drama trophy for "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead."

The best actor award went to Martin Balsam for his role in "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running."

Wins Two Trophies

Director's honors went to Mike Nichols for the dramatic play, "Plaza Suite," and Gower Champion for the musical "Happy Time." Champion also was named best choreographer, picking up his sixth and seventh Tony Awards.

The award to Nichols marked the director's second triumph in recent weeks. He won the Oscar for her work in road companies of "Hello Dolly!" and Miss Ballew for her rendition of the Broadway role. Regular Tony awards are not presented to anyone replacing an original cast member.

The awards, which were nationally televised by NBC, are shared by the composer and lyricist named for the late Antoinette Perry, one of the founders of the American Theater Wing which originated the honors 22 years ago.

Other winners in other categories were: best supporting actor, James Patterson, "TQH Birthday Party"; best supporting actress, drama, Zena Walk-er, "Joe Egg"; best supporting actor, musical, Hiram Sherman, "How Now Dow Jones"; and best supporting actress, musical, Lillian Hayman, "Hallelujah Baby!"

Jule Styne, Betty Comden and Adolph Green shared the composer and lyricist award for "Hallelujah Baby!" and Desmond Heeley won two awards, as scenic designer and costume designer, for "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead."

Other special awards went to: Audrey Hepburn, Maurice Chevalier, Marlene Dietrich, David Merrick and Helen Hayes on behalf of the APA-Phoenix Repertory Company.

Statistics Forecast Marriage Increase For Fox River Valley

Special to The Post-Crescent
NEW YORK — The Fox River Valley will be witnessing a sharp increase in its "young adult" population in the next few years, with a consequent rise in the local marriage rate and in the number of new household formations.

The latest census bureau figures show approximately 23,218 young men and women in the Fox River Valley are in the 20 to 25 age bracket.

There are 9,104 young adults in Outagamie County, 8,743 in Winnebago County, 3,261 in Waupaca County, and 2,010 in Calumet County.

New Households
This is an increase of 8,401 marriageable young people since 1960. Predictions indicate there will be a total of 11,400 new households in the Fox Valley in the next few years.

Why the sudden increase? It harks back to the second World War and to the extremely high birth rates in the years just following.

The babies that were born in that period have now reached adulthood and are in prime marrying ages. They are going to work, getting married and forming families of their own.

Economic Value
All of this is sweet music to new wedlock means a new household and each new household represents thousands of dollars of consumer business.

On the basis of surveys made of the bridal market, an estimated $1,500 is spent by a couple, with parental assistance usually, in connection with their engagement and wedding.

Another $3,000, on average, is spent within the first year in equipping their home. Some of it is paid for in cash and the rest is bought on credit.

Potential Spending
At this rate, the amount of potential spending in Fox River Valley from this source comes to a healthy $51,300,000.

New households will bring Outagamie County $20,250,000, Winnebago County $19,350,000, Waupaca County $7,200,000, and Calumet County $4,500,000.

This assumes that nearly all those in the young adult age group get married during the next few years and that some 11,400 new households result.

Business Gain
Nearly all segments of local economy will gain from the zip in business that this new spending will produce. Marketers of furniture, rugs, dishes, draperies, blankets, clothing, electrical equipment and other household necessities will all benefit.

These initial outlays will be followed by others, as family income increases, enabling the newlyweds to acquire homes of their own, buy new cars and add to their furnishings.

Today in History

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1898, the first shot of the Spanish-American War was fired when the USS Nashville captured a Spanish merchant ship off Key West, Fla.

On this date:

In 1793, the United States proclaimed its neutrality in a war between France and Britain.

In 1864, the U. S. Congress authorized the director of the mint to use the motto "In God We Trust."

In 1889, thousands of homesteaders swarmed into the Oklahoma Territory and staked out claims to government territory.

In 1915, the German army used poison gas for the first time in World War I.

In 1944, Allied soldiers invaded New Guinea in World War II.

In 1964, the New York's Fair opened.

To Your Good Health Glue Sniffers Are Poisoning Themselves

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Would you explain in your column how glue-sniffing affects an individual? I hear that so many students are glue-sniffers and I worry about them. Does it make them go off the deep end or just make them slap-happy? I am a curious and concerned teacher. — M. A.

I have had columns on this before, but apparently the kids who want to sniff glue don't read the column on such days.

Your definition for "going off the deep end" or "just being slap-happy" may be different than mine.

However, maybe this answer will do: the result of breathing the concentrated fumes is intoxication — some exhilaration and light-headedness, and then loss of judgment. The latter varies from one individual to another, just as is the case with alcohol. There are cases in which glue-sniffers have been seriously injured and even killed in traffic, or have fallen off roofs because they thought they could fly.

Intoxication is always potentially dangerous, and the young folks, now as always, have a tendency to think that nothing bad ever can happen to them.

Aside from the sheer intoxication from glue-sniffing, the more serious, and long-range, danger is severe damage to the body. Liver damage is the prime danger, and this damage can rather quickly go beyond the doctor's ability to cure or the liver's ability to repair it.

In a word, many glue-sniffing youngsters are starting on the road to having cirrhosis of the liver, because these glue fumes are poisonous. That's no figure of speech. They are actually toxic.

Besides liver damage, there can also be damage to the blood, and in turn to the brain. Glue-sniffing is physically dangerous, much more so than alcohol — and there is plenty of brain damage and cirrhosis among drinkers.

The dangerous element in glue — the "airplane glues," not ordinary glue — is the solvent, a hydrocarbon which evaporates very rapidly.

Solvents which are similarly dangerous are used in other products, spot removers, and so on. Gasoline is a hydrocarbon, too, but does not evaporate as rapidly as the airplane glue solvents. Thus sniffing gasoline or other such hydrocarbons can be harmful, too, but the rapidity with which the glue solvents evaporate means that the lungs absorb very large amounts of the poison in a much shorter time.

Tragic as it is when a youngster is hurt or gets into trouble while intoxicated from the fumes, the more depressing realization is the number who, as adults, will learn that their livers are being destroyed and little can be done for them.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband says there is no food value in gelatine, either fruit-flavored or plain. I say there is, a lot of protein. Am I right — Mrs. L. C. B.

Yes, gelatine has food value, what we call an incomplete protein, as it does not contain all of the necessary types of protein. It still is nourishing. Desserts made from gelatine powder and water contain about 60 calories per three ounces; if fruit is added, about 67 to 70 calories per three ounces (100 grams).

Note to Mr. W. J. B.: Yes, ulcer pains can be caused by hostility or other unpleasant emotion. You say ordinary treatment relieves you until you encounter this person. Isn't it someone you can avoid? That seems the simple answer.

Teens on Wheels

BY MICHAEL LAMM
For The Associated Press
Dear Mike:
Both my dad and I are interested in old cars. This summer we want to buy and restore one. I've just sold a Model A which I put back into near-new condition, but this time we want something more exotic. We don't care to spend too much, so it can't be one of the expensive classics. What would you consider a good compromise, and where could we find it?

Dear Restorer:
It depends mostly on what's available in your area. Run an ad in your newspaper under "Cars Wanted." You'll probably be swamped with offers. Also check the car magazines' classified sections. You'll have to make up your own minds, of course, but something like an Airflow, old Hudson, Graham, or another special-interest car seems like what you're after.

Dear Mike:
I have a '49 Nash, and while it's got about 200,000 miles on it, it runs fine. About the only really bothersome thing about it is the steering wheel. It's on crooked. When I'm driving straight down the road, the wheel is cocked as though I were making a hard left turn. How can I straighten this out?

Dear Circling:
It's easy in theory but hard in practice. First, take off the center steering wheel by twisting it a quarter turn counter-clockwise. This exposes the nut that holds the wheel (Little joke there). You'll have to remove the horn wire, and you ought to be certain the front wheels are pointed dead ahead. Now unscrew the central nut, then try to pull the steering wheel off its post.

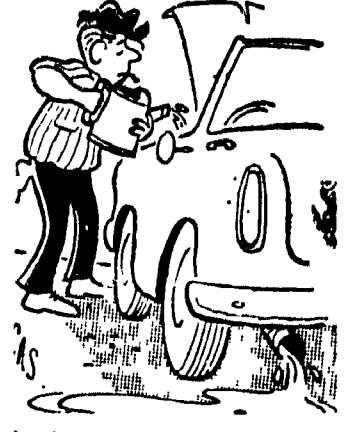

Steering wheels are usually on pretty tight, so that's why I say it's not easy in practice. If the wheel doesn't slip off fairly easily, you'll have to borrow a special wheel-puller from a mechanic. Once the wheel is off, though, simply set it properly on the steering column with the wheels pointed straight, and you're in business. Then just button the whole thing up again.

Dear Mike:
I have a 1963 Rambler American. It's always low on water. Each time I fill up with gas, the attendant puts about a gallon of water in my radiator. I've bought a new pressure cap, so it isn't that, but I still can't find a leak. The water has to be going someplace. Do you think it could be a cracked block — that the water's pumping into the cylinders and out the exhaust? I sure hope not, but I can't explain it any other way.

Dear Thirsty:
You're too worried. Rather than a cracked block, you probably just have a cracked radiator hose or a loose clamp. When pressure builds up, it forces a fine spray of water out of the system somewhere. To find out, give all hoses a thorough check after the engine's been running awhile and everything's warm.

Dear Mike:
What is the real purpose of speed-limit signs on curves and corners of country roads? Are these suggested speeds, or are they actual legal limits that can bring a ticket if not observed?

Dear Confused:
These signs in any state I know about mean the legal, top limit — nothing suggested about them. Naturally, if you buzz through a 45 m.p.h. (suggested) curve at 55 m.p.h. on a 60-m.p.h. highway, it's very hard for a patrolman to prove you were 10 m.p.h. over the posted limit. Yet if you skid, experts can read your skid marks and verify how fast you were traveling. The moral: Cool it — read the signs and obey them. They're not put there to decorate the roadside.

Gloudeamans' Department Store Sold

Once Valley's Finest, Store Opened in 1893

LITTLE CHUTE — After 75 years of service to the community, Gloudeamans' Department Store has been sold to two Appleton men and will soon go out of business.

Built in 1893 by Peter A. and Henry Gloudeamans, the store was for several years the largest and finest in the area.

Shortly after opening the store, Henry sold his interest to his brother and took over a general store at Chilton. Later Henry opened a general store at Appleton.

Peter Gloudeamans, the co-founder, was raised on a farm just north of this community. He attended Mount Calvary Seminary for several years before entering the retailing field as an employee of Pettibone-Peabody Co., Appleton.

No Competition
For many years the Gloudeamans' store had no real competition. Street cars were not yet in service between Little Chute and Appleton, and the only available transportation was the railroad or horse-and-buggy.

The volume of business the store enjoyed in its early days is demonstrated by early invoices which show that the owner purchased carloads of sewing machines, appliances, flour and canned goods.

The original owner built warehouses behind the store for his merchandise. Furniture, toys, inlaid carpeting and linoleum, Persian rugs, men's and women's clothing, appliances, shoes, farm equipment, pictures, religious goods, dry goods and foods — all these were available at Gloudeamans'.

A 1921 advertisement showed cookies selling at 10 cents a pound. The advertisement warned customers that only 5,000 pounds were available at this price. Business prospered, and in 1906 Gloudeamans added a second floor, to serve as living quarters and provide extra storage space.

Cracker Barrel
Since Peter served as village president from 1911 to 1920, much village business was transacted around the store's cracker barrel. Together with three other local men, Peter founded the Bank of Little Chute in 1906 and served as its president for many years. Since Laura's death several years ago.

He and his wife had eight children, three of whom took over operation of the store following his death in 1938. Wallace (Bob), Laura and Prudence ran the store, while another sister, Bernice, kept an interest for several years before selling out to the remaining three.

Four of the children died at an early age.

Shortly after taking over the business, the three closed off the portion of the store which served as a men's clothing area and rented the space to the government for a post office. The post office remained in the quarters for about 15 years.

When the postal department moved to larger quarters, a bicycle shop was started. Currently a drug store is housed in that section of the building.

The grocery department was phased out about a year ago following an illness which prevented Bob Gloudeamans from continuing to work. Prudence

Finance Plan Goal for Public Broadcasting

Sponsors Want Original $9 Million Budget Reapproved

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government and private officials are wrestling with the problem of formulating a long-range financial plan for the fledgling Public Broadcasting Corp. Congress authorized the corporation last year in an effort to boost federal support for non-commercial radio and television.

Just barely off the ground, it won't be fully functional until the fiscal year beginning July 1. An immediate concern is to

There also is a pending proposal by the Ford Foundation for a system of domestic communication satellites under which some amount of revenues would be made available to improve public broadcasting programming. And a presidential task force is looking into the broad field of telecommunications, including a review of use of domestic satellites.

In his presentation, Carey did raise some eyebrows by mentioning consultations with appropriate congressional units — an indication that tax questions could be directed to the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

But the House Commerce Committee wouldn't be expected to yield any of its jurisdictional domain over general authorizations in the communications field.

When William D. Carey, assistant Budget Bureau director, appeared before a House Commerce subcommittee last month he outlined three principal techniques which now appear to be available. They were:

—A tax on television and radio sets manufactured — essentially the same proposal advanced by the Carnegie Commission, which originally developed the concept of a public corporation. The public now spends an estimated $2 billion a year on TV sets.

—A new tax on gross revenues of commercial broadcasters, now totaling about $3 billion annually and rising.

—Some plan to make use of general tax revenues.

How You Make the Outfit For a New Bottle Cap Game

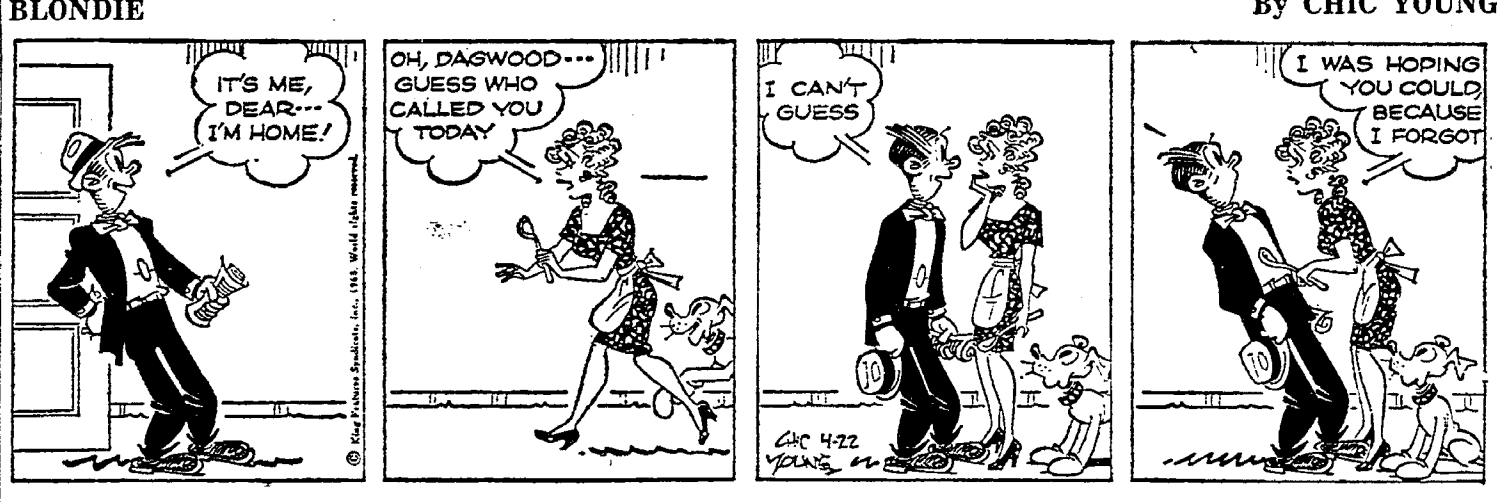

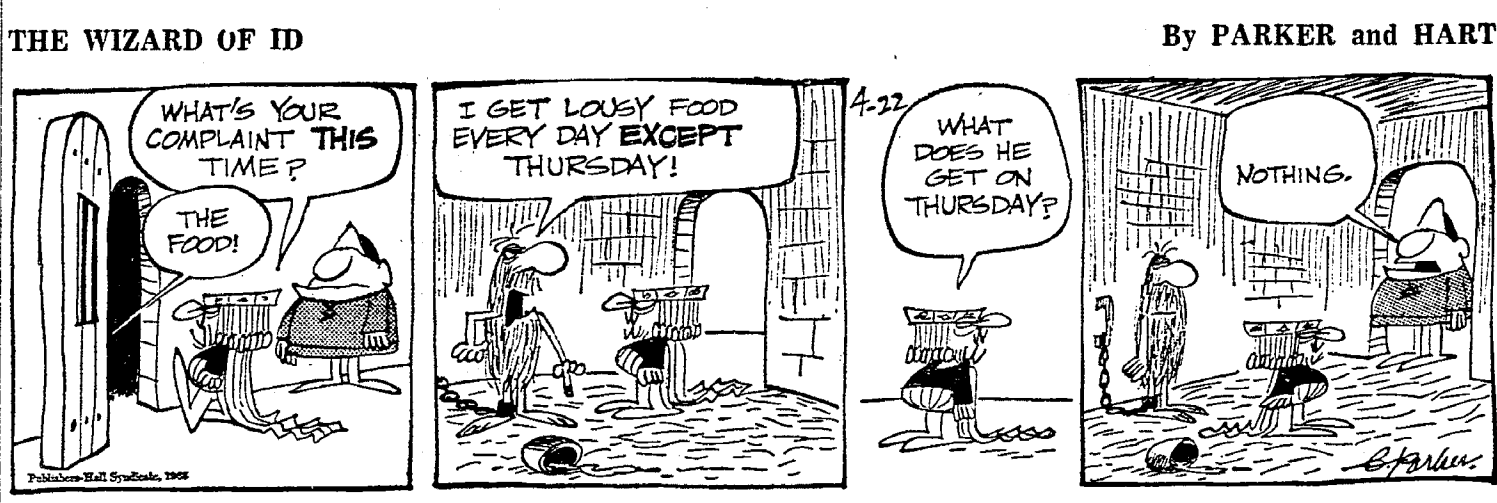

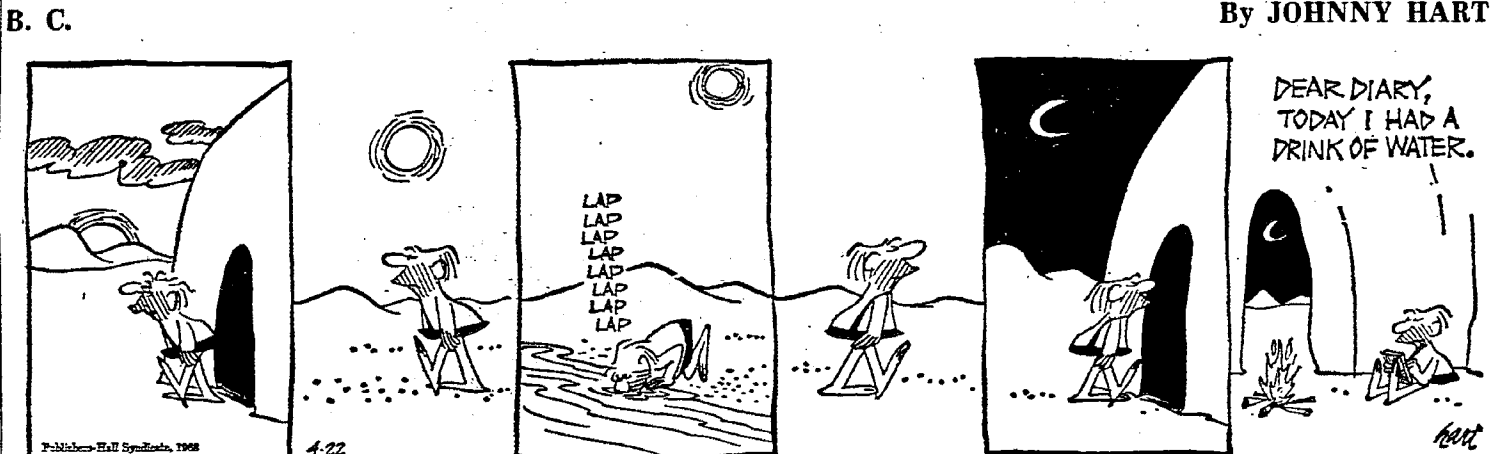

By CAPPY DICK

Materials that are easy to find in your home are used to make the bottle cap game which is today's fun-project for boys and girls. Needed are a shopping bag, eight small paper sacks, a collection of pop bottle caps and a supply of gummed reinforcement rings ordinarily used on notebook paper.

The shopping bag and the eight paper sacks are assembled as in Figure 1 to form a target. Print point values on the sacks and staple them around the shopping bag.

Give 10 bottle caps and 10 reinforcement rings to each player. He is to print his name on each of his rings and stick them to the tops of his bottle caps as in Figure 2.

Place the shopping bag upright on the floor. A player stands 10 feet from it and tosses his caps, one by one, aiming to land them in the small sacks. The player who has earned the most points wins the game. Tomorrow: Another shopping bag stunt that's easy to do!

Cooking With Wine Old American Tradition

Several centuries ago some unknown benefactor of mankind thought: "If wine goes so well with the food, why not use wine in the food? With that, this ancient genius used half a flagon of wine to baste the roasting goat.

Wine has held an honored place in American kitchens since the days when the colonists and the Indians were still trying to run each other out of the country. Many of us would, if we looked into the matter, find that wine figured in some of the recipes that our grandmothers learned from their grandmothers. And still, it always comes back to a few basic techniques.

Good Marinade
First, wine is a good marinade for meat and fish. After two hours in a wine marinade, any meat will keep some of the wine flavor and be more intriguing because of it. Wine also tenderizes meat when it is used this way.

Second, wine makes an excellent baste, or primary ingredient in a baste. Fowl is always a candidate for a wine baste. So are most beef or other roasts.

Poach Fish
Third, wine is good for poaching fish. Most California wines are suitable.

Fourth, wine does wonders in soups and in stews or casseroles that have meat in them. It replaces the water partly or completely. For covered oven dishes, wine can be added right at the beginning. For "stove-top" dishes, most should go in at the beginning, then a third or less of a cup added about 15 minutes before serving.

Finally, wine instead of water in a gravy or meat sauce helps those joyous ornaments to good food. Two tablespoons of port add richness of flavor and color to a meat gravy. A tablespoon of sherry does well with poultry graves and sauces — especially since it retains the light colors natural to them. And you can always enjoy wine with dinner, too.

MUSCULAR ACES-PAINS

Lovelier You Grooming Exam

A teen probably will not excel in all of her studies, unless she is some sort of a genius. But in the subject of grooming, a girl must go all out for straight A's. Lesser marks are unacceptable — socially unacceptable.

To make the grade you have to take pains with your day-to-day grooming. You cannot make a Saturday night affair of it. Seen as a messy character all week, a girl can never efface that impression, however much she slicks up on weekends.

In a very real sense you have to take and pass a grooming exam every day. The questions are no secret. Neither are the answers, for everybody sees them in lifesize. A sample quiz follows:

Hair — is it shining and tidy?

(It will never fall in line at a crucial moment, unless you keep it shampooed, brushed and neat all the time.)

Makeup — natural? (The skin has to be clean and clear before cosmetics can be applied with natural effects. Thus good skin care is basic to good grooming.)

Hands — clean, smooth and manicured? ('Nough said!)

Clothes — immaculate? (It's a tall order. Everything you wear has to be clean and wrinkle-free, brushed and polished, mended or repaired when necessary. Above reproach!)

Only steady grooming habits pay off and cause you to feel secure. What's more, you come to look prettier every day than when you made that frantic last-minute effort.

Your Problems

Marrying First Cousin No Longer Considered Hazardous

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I will try to make a long story short and get right to the point. I am going with a boy I am terribly fond of. Ken is fond of me, too. My mother's attitude toward Ken was always cool. It was obvious she disliked him.

About three weeks ago she said, "I hope you are not planning to marry Ken." When I replied, "As a matter of fact I am," she turned white and blurted out, "You can't. He is your first cousin." My mother then told me about her youngest sister who had died giving birth to an out-of-wedlock child. I had never heard a word about this sister or the child — in fact the whole story is so bizarre I am wondering if my mother made it up. She insists there is no way of checking as nobody knew of it but her.

The thing that bothers me is that Ken looks enough like me that people have asked if he is my brother. Also, he is adopted. I am a nervous wreck with worry. Can you give me some advice that will settle me down? — Nightmare Girl

Dear Girl: First of all, tell Ken everything you have heard. If you still want to be married, you are ready for the next decision.

Be aware that when first cousins marry the likelihood of their children inheriting harmful recessive characteristics is increased. These recessive genes could be present even if there is no blood relationship. Marriage always presents this possibility.

You and Ken should go to a physician, have complete physical examinations and give the doctor all the facts pertaining to your family medical histories. Also see a lawyer. Some states do not allow first cousins to marry. While the medical authorities are divided on the question, "Should first cousins marry?" the majority of enlightened physicians feel it is not particularly hazardous.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Because I feel you are my friend,

I would like to share something with you.

Here is a recent news item which appeared in our local newspaper:

"When Patrolman — head of the police department's traffic revenue, opened a parking ticket envelope the other day, he found a letter attached to the $5 bill paying the fine. He expected to read the usual profane language instructing the 'lousy cops' to spend more time catching criminals and less time harassing people who park too close to fire hydrants.

"What he read nearly shocked him out of his uniform — 'To whom it may concern: I would like to thank each and every police officer who risks his life every day to protect citizens such as me. A policeman's job is a dangerous and thankless one. Officers of the law take an enormous amount of abuse. Too often the entire force is blamed for the poor behavior of a few. May God bless the policemen in our city. More than ever, we need them now.' — Mrs. J.R." If you think this letter has merit, Ann, please print it. Sincerely yours, — Steady Reader

Dear Reader: I do and will. Here it is.

Ralph Pleier, above, an employe of the post office, explains how packages are sorted. They are placed into the proper sacks and from there will start their journey to their destination. Robert Vander Linden, also a postal employe, shows Michael Gadois and Cheryl Kranzusch the postal boxes in the lobby of the post office.

Most little tots wonder when they watch their mothers drop a letter into one of the big blue boxes on the corner how the person she is sending it to knows it's there and how they get the letter out when they do know.

Recently the four- and five-year-olds enrolled in the Christian Cooperative Nursery School sponsored by the parish education committee of First English Lutheran Church found out. Their teacher, Mrs. Paul Gladfelder, "Miss Cathy" to her students, arranged for a trip to the post office. Members of the postal department showed the children how the mail is sorted, cancelled and sent on its way.

During Their Trip through the post office, the children saw the automatic cancelling machine in operation. One of the little boys is especially curious about the way the machine works.

Home Is Where the Status Is, Says International Set Expert

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you are "with it," you probably have "house fever," even if you haven't yet acquired a second home.

Houses are the newest status symbol over the world, says Count Lanfranco Rasponi, who travels with the jet set, lives in their homes and writes books about them.

"Jewels are fading into vaults. Clothes have become so informal that there is little opportunity to wear diamonds. So — the international set shows off their houses, usually more than one. Some people keep five going."

Favorite Houses Moved

They may even move a house that appeals to them. Zurich heiress Hortense Buhrie moved an old cottage to St. Anton, one of Europe's snow playgrounds.

But it isn't just houses that count in this new social revolution—it's everything that goes with them—how they are decorated, the degree of informality in entertaining, even how many times a guest is kissed when greeted at the door.

People have houses wherever they vacation throughout the year, and keep their houses circulating by permitting friends to enjoy them, points out Rasponi. At the moment he was using the New York apartment of the Douglas Fairbankses while they were in Mexico.

Traces 'Tribal Customs'

In Capri, he stayed with Count and Countess Edward Bismarck, in Biarritz with Princess Peggy D'Arenberg and in Port Ercole, newest "in" place, with Duchess Canevaro, while writing "The Golden Oases," his new book about the tribal customs of the rich. His last book, "International Nomads," followed the jet-set travelers.

Rasponi hasn't been to an important party in two years that didn't have its share of interesting youth, he observed. "A host and hostess will go to great lengths to liven up the party scene with young people."

Parties Getting Bigger

The informality of youth may be one reason why social mores are changing, he reasons. The RSVP has disappeared completely from some party invitations. The Duchess of Bedford leaves cards in guest rooms advising "you are excused from writing me a thank-you note." New York hostess Ruth Ford gave a party suggesting on the invitation that "you can come with a tie or without a tie."

This informality has caused a trend to large parties, he points out. If there are no RSVPs one must ask enough people to make sure the party is a success.

Little-table dinners have become popular in areas where protocol is a big thing. The hostess designates one VIP to each table and everyone is happy.

Dinner table conversation is likely to center upon which house, palace, estate or castle one is visiting next, and who is renting or building a house where.

Newport, Southampton and Palm Beach are still standbys of elegant people in the United States but in Europe new resorts are making news. Port Ercole and Marbella (between Gibraltar and Malaga) are new "in places," he says.

Art of Door-Kissing

Anyone who would entertain properly should cultivate the art of door-kissing. It's the big thing in the international set—you tell the importance of people by the number of kisses the hostess conveys. Four or more puts you pretty much on top, two kisses may mean your stock is dwindling or you are being tolerated, and the no-kiss is really the kiss of social death—you are socially on your way out.

Rasponi was born in Florence to an Italian nobleman and an American mother, Caroline Montague of Chattanooga. He lived in New York for many years before he began his international travels.

Why not! With the return of the skirt and shirt, dig out those old long skirts and shorten them to mini length. With the fabric you take off the hem, make a fake tie. Just make a narrow band and a loop at the top to create the tie look, then attach elastic to go around the neck and under the collar. The costume look will be a neat addition to your wardrobe. # Please Don't Feed the Plescostomus

BY MARY WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

And for the man who's got everything, how about a plescostomus and an aquarium to put it in?
For $2.28 this homely — but tidy — scavenger with a mouth that doubles as a vacuum cleaner now could be keeping your aquarium free from algae had you been at Thursday's fish auction sponsored by the Valley Aquarium Society at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Jansen, Combined Locks.
The event drew aquarium fish hobbyists of all ages from the Fox Valley area to gaze at entries in the informal bowl show and to bid for guppies, livebearers, bettas, egg-layers, scavengers, turtles and snails.
As William Pryor, the club's president, told the group, theirs is a highly sophisticated hobby with a history dating back to at least 2500 B.C., when the Sumerians kept fish for food and amusement. The enterprising ancient Chinese made a business of the hobby by exporting goldfish, while fun-loving Romans included fish watching in the home on their list of spectator sports.

But not until 1850, did England's Philip Henry Gosse discover the principles governing the successful operation of an aquarium. Twenty years later, public aquariums made their debut in England and Germany, and they've been getting bigger and better ever since.
Valley Aquarium Society members are eagerly awaiting the opening of Milwaukee's 65,000-gallon aquarium next month. But one young man who may not be making the trip for some time is Rick Vander Loop, high bidder for the plescostomus. After all, who knows what he would bring home?

Homely But Useful was the verdict rendered by club president and evening auctioneer, William Pryor, Neenah, and DeWayne Sorges, who peer in at a plescostomus too busy eating algae to look out. A native of the Amazon River, the scavenger grows to more than a foot long in its natural environment. The 5-inch-long specimen above belonged to the club's secretary, Tom Ditter, until it was auctioned off to Randy Vander Loop who paid $2.25. At right, a 55-gallon aquarium belonging to Valley Aquarium Society members Mr. and Mrs. Roland Jansen was the main attraction for Mrs. James Jones, Green Bay; Rick Vander Loop, Kaukauna, and Randy Jansen, Kimberly, who attended the club's bowl show and auction Thursday. Dick Campshure designed the aquarium ornamentation to duplicate the natural environment of its inhabitants which include the discus, neons, cardinals and black veiltail angels, all from South America's Amazon River, and the clown loach of Thailand. Unlike most aquariums, this one is viewable from both sides and requires no care beyond the feeding of the fish.

"What Am I Bid?" asks auctioneer William Pryor of Valley Aquarium Society members and guests. The evening was planned in the spirit of fun with ribbons awarded to entries in the bowl show which preceded the auction being conducted above. (Post-Crescent Photos by Ralph Acker)

Miss Margaret Walsh and Raymond L. Janes, Kalamazoo, Mich., were honor attendants. Guests were seated by James E. Keelan and Thomas J. Hale. The couple greeted guests at a reception at Riverview Country Club.
Mrs. Kukulich has been employed at the Institute of Paper Chemistry.

Nun Uses Dance to Express Worship

By HAROLD V. STREETER
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One minute the loose, flowing white habit of 23-year-old Sister Tina Bernal is the shapeliest one of any Roman Catholic nun. In a twinkling it takes on grace and beauty as—before an altar at mass—her lithe body swirls and she lifts high one leg to the position ballet devotees know as a la seconde.
The petite and pretty nun who studied ballet in the United States and Europe before entering the convent in 1964, is using the dance—always to the music of the church—as an expression of worship.
Explains Religious Life
"I think that the dance is a means of getting and reaching out and explaining religious life," she said in an interview.
"Now in the mass, which we believe is the center function—it is the thanksgiving, the banquet—it seems to me that this is especially one form of prayer where we should bring all of our faculties to it.
"When we go to church, the first thing we do is we walk into the church. So we are using all of us. We are totally coming into God's presence. When we go up to the offertory procession, we walk up.
Move to God
"We are symbolizing that we are a pilgrim church, that we are on the move to God. So constantly our body is speaking for us. We don't have to say anything. And yet by our very actions people know what we are doing.
"So dance, therefore, to me is the movement of the soul made visible to the eyes of men."
Recently, while three girls played hymns on guitars, Sister Bernal danced before an altar at a mass for delegates to the National Convention of the College Theology Society, at a San Francisco hotel. She is a member of the order of the Religious of the Sacred Heart.
The little sister says:
"I feel if the day ever came when attention ended in me and didn't go on to God I would really have to stop dancing."

BONDUEL — The Woman's Club recently elected new officers for two-year terms.
They are Mrs. Wilbur Harri-man, president; Mrs. Frank Weix, vice president; Mrs. Ernst Westerfeld, secretary, and Mrs. James Brandt, treasurer.

Mrs. Harry Manthei was re-elected representative of the club on the library board. The club's annual banquet will be at the Bilmay Hotel at 6:30 p.m. May 27.

Fashion Through Eyes of Child Is Funny Business

The following story is by Alexandre Angove, age 5, as told to his father Rodney Angove, of The Associated Press Paris staff.
By ALEXANDRE ANGOVE
PARIS (AP) — There is no school on Thursday but Mommie got me up early anyway and said we were going to a fashion show for children by Pierre Cardin, who made the necktie she gave Daddy for Christmas.
Mommie put on her Pierre Cardin scarf. She dressed me in my red tie, just like going to Sunday School.
When we got there it looked like a slot car track, except these children came out on the table wearing special things you can't buy in regular stores. The difference is, these things are made specially for each boy and girl, and cost a lot of money. Mommie said.
"Looked Different?"
They sure looked different. Some outfits were jumpers over bright turtleneck sweaters. Play clothes had big cut-out sections and the biggest zippers I ever saw.
Some of the kids were sort of pushed out on the table, riding scooters or carrying beach balls. A pretty woman directed things. She was Mme. Herve Al-phand. She used to live in America.
Then I saw Estelle. We painted together at Madeleine Michelis kindergarten. She came out in a long organdie party dress and everyone clapped. She's pretty anyway. But I wonder what she sees in that kid that came out with her, all dolled up in black velvet.
"Funniest Thing"
The funniest thing was a girl who looked pear-shaped in a playsuit with a big fat hip line. There were twin girls in evening capes, one green and one red. But these girls both looked exactly the same. My twin sisters Lori and Lisa don't look alike at all.
The best thing was a tuxedo —red jacket, black striped trousers and white turtleneck. That's not for roughnecks, Mommie said. But the boy was wearing white socks.
Then came the brother-sister silver swimsuits, and the girl's had an extra piece up where she didn't need it yet.
Mme. Al-phand knows kids are kids whether they're dressed up or not. So right at the end she ran them all out on the table naked. You should have seen it.

25 to 30 Involved Police Crack 'Ring' Of Girl Shoplifters

Some 25 to 30 junior high school girls were involved in an extensive "shoplifting ring" cracked by Appleton Police Department juvenile bureau officers.

Police said today that the ring came to light with the apprehension late last month of several girls who were caught with merchandise they had stolen March 23 from the H. C. Prange Co. downtown store. The girls were nabbed in the F. W. Woolworth Co. restroom where an employe noticed them taking tagged merchandise from under their coats.

Mostly Clothing

Detectives explained that they have not yet questioned all of the girls believed to be involved in the thefts which they said date back to last summer. Most of the merchandise was taken since last September, however, and police said that some of the girls have stolen more than $100 worth of items.

One girl admitted taking merchandise amounting to $153. Police said that most of the stolen articles are clothing. "Also included are inexpensive jewelry, cosmetics, records, hair pieces, cigarettes, and school supplies.

Only a small amount of jewelry was recovered. Police said the girls gave away much of the merchandise.

The girls stole the items during school lunch hours, after school, and on weekends, police said. They hit many downtown stores.

Police, who said it was one of the most extensive shoplifting rings here in some time, explained that the girls have been released to their parents pending further action. Several of the girls already are under juvenile supervision. Most of the girls attend the same school.

Police Catch Youths With Stolen Bus

Walkaways From Winnebago Drove Vehicle to Appleton

With a 12-year-old boy steering and his 14-year-old companion operating the other controls, two Winnebago State Hospital walkaways drove a stolen school bus from Oshkosh to Appleton, via Neenah and Menasha, Sunday evening.

The boys were caught in a used car lot on W. Wisconsin Avenue after parking the bus.

James Lust, 1708 N. Alvin St., notified police at 11:10 p.m. Sunday that a school bus was being operated in an erratic manner on S. Memorial Drive, near W. Prospect Avenue. He said the bus was parked in the 600 block of W. Lawrence Street, but it was gone when police arrived.

At 11:20 p.m. Sunday, Lust caught the pair hiding in the

Fact Finding Briefs Being Prepared by Teachers, Schools

Labor Arbitrator Will Rely Heavily on Documents in Decision

The written briefs to be used in a Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) fact finding on deadlocked 1968-69 Appleton teacher contract negotiations are expected to be prepared this week, setting the stage for the lengthy investigation which will precede recommendations.

Transcripts of the daylong fact finding hearing March 21 were mailed today. Factfinder Phillip Marshall, a Milwaukee attorney, indicated at that time that briefs should be in his office within 10 days after the transcripts are mailed.

Transcripts were sent to Marshall and negotiators of the board of education and the teachers.

Marshall will rely heavily on the briefs to prepare his recommendations in the negotiations which developed an impasse early in February, principally on salary and salary structure.

Several Months

A decision might not be ready for several months, Marshall said, at the hearing. Marshall's recommendation is only advisory, but is expected to be considered by the board of education and the Appleton Education Association (AEA) in bargaining.

Teachers requested the fact-finding after they rejected the board of education's final offer which included a $6,200 base for beginning teachers with a bachelors degree and flat $250 increments. The final official AEA demand represents an average of $2,000 increase per teacher compared with the board of education's offer, about an average of $1,000 increase.

Teachers are seeking an index system for annual pay increases while the board of education prefers flat amount increases. The present salary schedule uses a combination of the two types.

Prepare Briefs

Following oral arguments at the factfinding, Marshall told negotiators to prepare briefs with their specific positions on the 1968-69 contract. He said he wanted to know exactly what each side was asking.

Gordon Myse, an Appleton attorney, represented the AEA at the fact finding while Kenneth Sager, chief board of education negotiator, spoke for the school system. Supt. of Schools William Spears also

4 Injured in 3-Car Crashes

Two Hospitalized Following Pair of Appleton Accidents

Two three-car accidents in Appleton Sunday afternoon brought injuries to four persons.

The first accident was at 1:30 p.m. at N. Oneida Street and W. Parkway Boulevard, and involved cars driven by Edwin C. Schuster, 46, West Allis; Anna J. Ostertag, 720 N. Morrison St., and Kay F. Kadow, 21, 429 E. Parkway Blvd.

Appleton police said that Schuster suffered a back injury and a cut hand and was taken to a doctor for treatment.

Thomas Rohde, 27, 1909 N. Superior St., was taken by ambulance to Appleton Memorial Hospital for treatment of face and hand cuts.

Police stated that Schuster was northbound on Oneida and turned left in front of the southbound Kadow car. The Kadow auto struck the side of the Schuster car, which struck the front of the Ostertag auto, which was stopped for a stop

Mason's Picketing Relaxed On Some Construction Jobs

Projects Not Using Concrete Or Brick Work May Resume

Striking masons in a 20-county area today relaxed their picketing against members of the Fox Valley Contractors Association as the strike of bricklayers and cement finishers entered its second week.

It enabled work to resume on some construction projects which had been at a complete standstill since April 8.

A spokesman for the unions said agreement had been reached among the six striking locals to withdraw picket lines in several areas so members of other craft unions could go back to work.

Since the strike started, an estimated 4,000 to 5,000 laborers and other union members in a 20-county area have been refusing to cross picket lines.

Revised Proposal

The action of the union was viewed as a compromise between the parties involved in the contract dispute. Members of the Contractors' Association agreed to meet at Appleton Wednesday to consider making a revised proposal.

Today's action by the unions, a spokesman said, was not to be misinterpreted as capitulation.

He explained the pickets were withdrawn at all construction projects where no concrete was being poured or bricks laid.

Police Jobsites

"We will be policing the jobsites and whenever an attempt is made to do any of this work — there will be pickets in a hurry," he added.

The arrangement was worked out at a meeting of business agents for the various union locals involved in the strike.

There has been speculation that this week might bring about a settlement of the dispute and a new three-year pact.

Even with the pickets off many jobsites, construction was limited.

Planning Seminar

Two Milwaukee firms, Diversified Financial, Inc., and Phillips Securities, Inc., will hold a joint financial planning seminar 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Conway Motor Inn. Covered will be all phases of personal money management.

A native of Milwaukee, the priest was ordained in 1927. After leaving Appleton, he was assigned to a Negro parish, St. Benedict the Moor, in Milwaukee and from there went to an Indian mission in Montana.

He will be buried Wednesday in Huntington.

Democratic Governor Prospect 'Maier Boom' Helps Alliance

The move to draft Mayor Henry W. Maier of Milwaukee to run on the Democratic Party ticket for governor today was interpreted as "a plus" for the 20-member Alliance of Cities.

"Whether Maier runs or not, it will give the cities more political muscle when presenting their suggestions for new legislation in 1969," Mayor George Buckley commented.

Buckley, along with mayors from several other state cities, will go to Madison May 2 to appear on behalf of the Alliance of Cities proposals to be submitted to the Tarr Task Force.

Headed by Dr. Curtis Tarr, president of Lawrence University, the blue-ribbon group is expected to start deliberations soon on recommendations it will make to the Wisconsin Legislature on changing tax distribution formulas and other laws that have been on the books for years.

Main Theme

The Alliance met at La Crosse recently and drew up proposals — the main theme being that county government should be strengthened and governmental units consolidated in lieu of metro districts.

City Attorney David Geunen and Planner Walter Rasmussen will also represent Appleton at the Madison hearing.

"The Appleton delegation will support the Alliance of Cities proposals all the way," Buckley said.

The overall goal of the cities is to work for property tax relief.

The news story about a Maier-for-governor draft broke last week and was the latest development in Wisconsin politics. It hinted of a possible "dump LaFollette" movement.

Oppose Knowles

Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette, a Democrat, has already announced he would shoot for the nomination to oppose Gov. Warren Knowles, the anticipated Republican standard bearer who will be seeking his third term.

Maier has not made any comment on the reports he is allegedly being asked to run for governor. However, in an Appleton appearance here several months ago when the Alliance of Cities was meeting, Maier said it would be up to the cities to play a major role in upcoming statewide elections.

"We should put ourselves in a position where we can drive some bargains for the benefit of Wisconsin's cities which have been suffering under existing archaic tax, annexation and government operation laws," Maier said.

More Influence

A spokesman for Maier told The Post-Crescent today that based on the mayor's position influence to help put the Alliance of Cities in a better bargaining position," the aide said.

It is expected other mayors who were recently re-elected will also take the same course in making appearances before the Tarr Task Force, and in the vote in the Milwaukee election, he may exert more their respective regions.

K-C Officials to Answer Charges On Effluent Going to NM Plant

NEENAH-MENASHA — Kimberly-Clark Corporation officials are expected to appear at a Thursday meeting of the Neenah-Menasha Sewerage Commission to counter charges that have been made by two new members on the commission.

Commission President Edward DenDoooven said this morning that the meeting had been shifted from Wednesday to Thursday to allow the attendance of the Kimberly-Clark officials.

The attack against the present contract between the paper firm and the commission has been led by Gilbert Krueger and Adam Haber.

Krueger said this morning that the meeting would be a lively one, during which he would enter new figures and facts on use of the joint municipal sewage facilities by the paper firm.

Actual Cost: Krueger, a longtime critic of the contract with the company, said today that the actual cost of treating effluent from the Lakeview Mill is $52,000, compared to a $13,000 fee paid by Kimberly-Clark last year.

He claimed that investigations at the sewage plant have shown a rise in Kimberly-Clark effluent from 23 million gallons in 1969 when the present contract was signed to 135 million gallons in 1966 and 237 million gallons in 1967.

U. S. Aerospace Program Topic Of Discussion

Briefing Team At Lawrence to Describe Projects

Highlights of the United States aerospace program will be described by a team of Air Force experts in two public presentations at 7:30 p.m. today and 11:10 a.m. Tuesday at Lawrence University's Stansbury Theater.

The three-man briefing team, from Maxwell A.F.B., Ala., will speak on the topic, "The U. S. Space Program." The presentations include color movie clips and slide showings.

The team's programs, which place special stress on the Air Force's role in space, will describe selected projects; systems and operations of manned and unmanned near-earth exploration; lunar exploration, deep space probes, servant satellites; and the future of aerospace developments. The briefings are given in essentially non-technical terms.

Members of the team are Maj. Robert K. Potter, Capt. Kenneth C. Sorenson; and Capt. David L. Frederick.

Potter, a 1953 West Point graduate, has been a Strategic Air Command (SAC) pilot and a project engineer in the Technical Planning Division of the Aeronautical Charting and Information Center. He holds a master of science degree from the Ohio State University, and is a graduate of the Air Command and Staff College.

Brigham Young Graduate Sorenson is a 1960 graduate of Brigham Young University, where he majored in political science and received his Air Force commission. He has served as an administrative officer at Lockbourne Air Force Base, Ohio, and as a personnel-administrative officer for the NATO communications network in Izmir, Turkey. He became the Administrative Staff Officer for the Air University Presentations Directorate in 1966.

Frederick received a bachelor of science degree and Air Force commission at Bradley University. He has been a flight training instructor at Webb Air Force Base, Texas, and flown 800 combat hours in Vietnam and Southeast Asia.

Thieves Force Garage Door, Steal Mower

Thomas Oudenhoven, 307 W. Prospect Ave., reported to Appleton police Sunday morning that a power lawn mower, a snow tire and wheel, and a lawn sweeper were stolen from a storage shed on his property.

Police said that a door was forced to gain entry. Oudenhoven valued the stolen merchandise at $88.

the plant's facilities, Krueger said.

The principal arguments that will be raised by the two new commissioners will center on the operations of the new Kimberly-Clark clarifier and "fair payment," Krueger said.

According to Krueger, there is a valve connection between the clarifier and the public sewerage system. Krueger said he would ask that the connection either be locked up, disconnected or fitted with a double key arrangement.

More important than the gallon volume of effluent from the K-C plant, Krueger said, is the amount of solids coming from the Lakeview Mill.

The company officials expected at the meeting are Fred Hollenbeck, a former member of the commission, and Abbott Byfield, director of public affairs.

Man Arrested for Tippy Driving Being Questioned for Theft

A 56-year-old man who could give police no permanent address, is being held here after being caught Sunday afternoon with a 1966 auto allegedly stolen in Beloit over the weekend.

The man, whose mother and sister live here, was arrested for driving while under the influence of intoxicants. Police made the arrest about 2:25 p.m. Sunday after being notified of a car crossways in the road in the 1000 block of E. John Street. The man was behind the wheel. Police earlier had received reports that the car was seen being operated in an erratic manner.

Police, who said that the man tested .17 on the breathalyzer, at first produced identification showing he was from Beloit. However, it later was found that the identification was stolen with the car. Police were to question the man further today.

Proposed Fire Substation Gets Top Priority in Menasha

MENASHA — The proposed fire department substation has been given top priority by Mayor John L. Klein said today.

The architect has submitted preliminary sketch to city hall for the estimated $70,000 building he said.

The northside substation, he said, is "very, very necessary." "We will push it as fast as we can."

Klein, who formally took over as Mayor Tuesday, said he met Friday with the architectural firm, John A. Kurth & Associates, Appleton, and the fire chief on the proposed building.

Within a week or 10 days, Klein said a meeting with the members of the civic building committee, the fire chief and the board of public works would be called to set the wheels further in motion. Officials are currently reviewing the preliminary sketch submitted by Kurth & Associates, which includes room for a pumping truck, aerial ladder truck and an ambulance, Klein said.

The city currently does not have an ambulance, but Klein said that growth in Neenah will make it more difficult for the Neenah ambulance to handle both cities, and Menasha should acquire its own.

Location of the substation at the Airport Road-State 47 site was made after two alternate sites were considered. Officials felt the site would provide the best access to the state highway and other thoroughfares, as well as serving to advertise that the city has adequate fire protection for its north side.

New Appleton Navy Recruiter Reports for Duty

Chief Machinist Mate Fred D. Dodson, 32, has reported in Appleton as Navy recruiter, with offices at the Post Office.

He enlisted in the Navy in Milwaukee in 1954 and has just returned from duty aboard the USS Forrest Royal, a destroyer operating in the Tonkin Gulf off the Vietnamese coast.

Chief Dodson and his wife, Josephine, have three sons and a daughter. They will make their home in Appleton.

He is a sports enthusiast and hopes to have the opportunity to work with Little League baseball.

The substation might help to bring in more industry.

Klein said he could not estimate at this time when the substation would be completed.

Equipment for the substation is not included in the $70,000 figure, Klein said.

Back-Up on U.S. 41 Follows 3-Car Crash

OSHKOSH — A three-mile backup of southbound traffic on U.S. 41 at the Lake Butte des Morts bridge south of Oshkosh occurred Sunday afternoon following a three-car collision which blocked southbound lane of the two-lane bridge crossing.

No injuries resulted from the accident, but Winnebago County sheriff's officers were forced to detour State 110 traffic wanting to go south on 41 because of the backup. At one point the jam reached county trunk Y.

Northbound traffic was not affected by the tie-up.

The three-car collision occurred at 3:26 p.m. when an auto driven by Vernon V. Kelling, 41, of route 1, Adell, applied his brakes to slow down for traffic and was struck in the rear by an auto driven by Gerald O. Kjemhus, 17, of 922 N. Richmond St., Appleton.

Another car driven by Alvin A. Smarzinski, 44, Bayview Drive, Neenah, skidded into the rear of the Kjemhus auto.

New Bridge

Highway department officials say the southbound lane of the new U.S. 41 four-lane bridge causeway will be completed by Labor Day if weather conditions permit. The project began in July 1967.

When the new dual lane southbound span is completed, the present two lane structure also will be raised to 32 feet above the water level.

Jam-ups occur at the present two-lane bridge whenever traffic is heavy, such as on a holiday weekend or before a Green Bay Packer home game.

Youths Admit to Theft From Store

A 13-year-old Appleton boy was returned to a Green Bay boys' school where he had once been confined, and his two young companions were placed in juvenile detention in the Outagamie County jail after they admitted stealing money from a bait and tackle shop owned by Merle Simpson, 815 W. Brewster St., Friday afternoon.

The boys in detention — ages 13 and 14 — are awaiting further action by juvenile authorities of the Appleton Police Department.

Mrs. Simpson notified police Friday afternoon that she saw three youngsters run from the bait shop. She then discovered that about $10 was missing from a cash register. A person who saw the youths identified them.

One of the 13-year-old boys said he was in the shop earlier in the day and stole $8. Of the $18, about $15 was recovered. Police said the boys have been involved in many offenses in past months.

Geography Gets Glamorous

"I suppose you prepared yourselves for this course by memorizing the 50 states and their capitals. Well, forget it. That's how William G. Laatsch regularly opens his geography classes at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center.

Geography used to call for the memorization of facts. But in Laatsch's classes students aren't expected to remember the exact width of the Amazon River or the height of Mt. Everest.

This is the third in a four-part series on "Social Sciences Today," prepared by the staff of the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center.

Instead they study differences in land forms, climate and man's adjustment to these factors.

"Geographers these days are generalists, observing entire regions and characteristics of them," says Laatsch.

Emphasis Shift

This shift of emphasis in geographic education has been marked.

Geography was one of the first four courses offered when the Fox Valley Center opened in 1936. At that time geography fulfilled the requirement of a laboratory course for Center students. Materials and equipment for the course were simple, inexpensive and easily transportable.

Konrad Ebisch, who has taught in the Center geography department since 1946, says, "It was literally possible to teach geography from the trunk of my car."

And indeed he did.

Ebisch learned a lot about Wisconsin geography in his first years with the Center. He traveled between Menasha and New London, Marshfield and Wisconsin Rapids, teaching geography at each place. Sometimes Center classes met in a high school or a church annex, and Ebisch taught one course in a city hall council room. He carried his minimal supply of maps with him.

Winter Day

"One winter day, as I left Menasha for a class in Wausau," Ebisch recalls, "it was 5 degrees above zero. As I went farther north it became colder, and by the time I reached Wausau it was 19 below. It certainly was an impressive lesson in geography and climate difference."

After World War II, the study of geography changed. The subject began to reflect the end of isolationism and the beginning of American interest in world affairs. It has become a well respected discipline and more scientific in its approach.

Geography courses offered at the Center reflect the change of emphasis. There are classes that investigate climate, vegetation and land forms throughout the world. Economic geography explores man's economic activity over the earth, from subsistence agriculture to sophisticated manufacturing.

Scientific equipment used in geography courses has improved too — in complexity as well as in quantity.

Fold-Up Map

"I used to carry a fold-up map of the world with me," recalls Ebisch, "but now each desk in the lab has its own globe."

The Center now has a fully equipped weather station that includes a rain gauge for measuring rainfall, a hygro-thermal graph to measure relative humidity and temperature, an anemometer to record wind velocity, psychrometers to measure humidity and barometers to indicate air pressure.

The geography department has a well-stocked map library with large-and small-scale maps of many areas of the world.

A recent addition to the geography department is a stream table, which simulates geographic conditions. With this device students can observe soil erosion, drainage patterns and wave action on beaches. It is a complex type of sand box into which a stream of water is directed. It stimulates in miniature the same forces of nature that act on the earth.

"The stream table explains more to the students than many lectures can. It's fun too," admits Laatsch.

Damper on Trips

Laboratory equipment is necessary because field trip expeditions are limited here. By the time classes are well under way at the Center, winter too, is under way, and bad weather puts a damper on trips.

But in the spring Ebisch guides a traditional field trip to Devil's Lake.

"It always shocks students to see how much sooner spring has reached Devil's Lake than the Fox Valley," says Ebisch. "It drives home to the student that for every 70 miles you travel south, you add 2½ degrees to the average temperature." (Devil's Lake is 100 miles from Menasha.)

At Devil's Lake geographic phenomena range from Precambrian rock (that's the oldest) up to present-day erosion. The students can study glacial geography and also the nearby unglaciated areas. Examples of drainage, potholes and wave erosion are also available for study.

Indian Mounds

Historical sites and Indian mounds interest the student too and show the use to which the first men in Wisconsin put the land.

"Geography is a valuable part of a liberal education," says Laatsch. There are 1,340 colleges and universities that offer geography, of which 230 offer an undergraduate major and 32 the doctoral degree. Four geography courses will be offered at the Center this spring.

And how can one earn a living in geography?

Most students who major in the subject enter the teaching field. But there are many other areas of employment.

The federal government hires geographers for work in the Department of the Interior, the Defense Department and the CIA. Before coming to the Menasha campus Laatsch himself worked in the Library of Congress.

Congo Garb

"I was in charge of the care and feeding of the map collection," he said. He did legislative reference work too.

One of his more humorous assignments was to answer the request of a senator who was to visit the Congo. The senator wanted to know what his wife should wear for the trip.

There are other job opportunities for geographers in marketing research, photo-interpretation, transportation planning and regional planning. Even super-market planners consult geographers when selecting a new location.

A geographer is in the enviable position of having research opportunities wherever he chooses to locate. He can study climate and land forms near home, or he can journey to far places. He can work in business, do research or even "cloak and dagger" interpretation for the government.

Both Ebisch and Laatsch agree that Wisconsin is a fine place to begin a career in geography.

The boys told police they left the state hospital about 5 p.m. Sunday and walked to Oshkosh, where they stole the bus from a lot on which several buses were parked. They said they started the 48-passenger vehicle by simply "turning a knob."

Neither boy had ever driven. The 12-year-old sat behind the wheel and his companion assisted as they drove through Neenah and Menasha, into Appleton. There was no damage to the bus, which police learned is owned by L. E. Kuhn of Oshkosh.

The boys were held in juvenile detention in the Outagamie County Jail overnight, pending their return to the state hospital.

Spears warned the teachers' demands would have an escalating effect on the school budget and the Appleton tax levy. He and Sager claimed the percentage increase system for annual pay increases would "escalate this thing into the wild blue yonder."

Partial Basis

Myse asserted the board of education was reversing its 1965 position when the index system was put into effect on a partial basis. The board of education noted the long-range values of the system to teachers at that time, Myse said, at the fact finding.

Myse also contended the other schools in the Fox River Valley Conference used the increment system, and that the board of education's final offer did not compare favorably with settlements in other schools of the conference.

Sager asserted it did.

Marshall was called in after two attempts at mediation in February failed to remove the impasse. A WERC official met with both sides during the February sessions.

Youngsters Can Win Gifts For Mom by Drawing Her

Fox Cities area youngsters — kindergarten through sixth grade — will be able to display their feeling for mom with an artistic display in a "Draw Your Mother" contest being sponsored in early May by the Appleton Downtown Retail Association, a division of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce.

The youngsters will be competing for $150 in prizes to win as gifts for their mothers on Mothers Day, R. J. Gloudemans, contest chairman, said.

Deadline for entering is May 4, and entries will be taken by any of the participating firms no later than 5 p.m. that day. Entries will be displayed in participating downtown businesses May 6-11.

Three Classes

Drawings will be judged in three categories — kindergarten through first grade; second through fourth, and fifth through sixth. Entries must be on 8 by 11½ inch paper sketched in crayon only.

They will be judged on neatness, imagination and originality. The name, address and phone number of the contestant must appear on the back side of the drawing and his school grade on the front side in the lower left hand corner.

Appleton Gallery of Arts members will judge the entries while they are on display.

Irene Koeller Takes Lead In Class A on 853 Total

14 Changes Recorded in Pin Meet

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Irene Koeller, of Clintonville, blasted an 853 series, including handicap, for four games and took over first place in women's Class A division of the Bowl-O-Rama Sunday at the 41 Bowl.

Irene's performance was one of 14 changes recorded in the standings for the four divisions in Sunday's two shifts of bowling.

The weekend brought a goodly number of changes in each class, but women's Class B saw the major shuffle as nine of the top 10 spots were taken by new kiegles. Jean Nettekoven, Black Creek, who was the Class B leader going into the weekend, now ranks eighth.

Irene Koeller took over the Class A lead on the strength of booming games of 225 and 231 sandwiched around scores of 165 and 144. She had 19 strikes in the four games and the 231 game along with her handicap of 22 pins per game, won the shift prize with the 253 total.

Other changes in women's Class A Sunday included Dorothy Brower, Appleton, taking over eighth place with a 768.

Also in Class B on Sunday, Liz Koehler, Weyauwega, climbed into sixth place with 792; Ann Zahring, Sherwood, took ninth with 784 and Jan Biese, Kaukauna, went into 10th place with a 783 total.

Don Appleman, Shawano, created the biggest stir in men's Class B Sunday as he vaulted into third place with a 747 scratch total and 128 pins handicap for a 875. Orv Luesch, Appleton, moved into seventh place in Class B with 841 and Ed Sobieski, Green Bay, now ranks 10th after a 828 performance.

Major change over the weekend in men's Class A was the 868 count by Ray Dedrich, Kaukauna, which put him into fifth place. On Sunday, Al Rothberg, Appleton shot 848 to go into the No. 11 spot and Phil Williams, of Kimberly, cracked 846 to rank 12th.

In addition to Irene Koeller, other shift prize winners from Sunday included Roger Keltes, Green Bay, on the 2 p.m. squad with a 206 game and 45 pins handicap for a 251 and on the 4 p.m. shift Shirley Pelkey had a 203 game and 43 pins handicap for 246 while Appleman pounded a 216 game and carried 32 pins handicap for a 248.

Action in the Bowl-O-Rama continues Tuesday night with shifts at 7 and 9 p.m. Over 2,600 kiegles have already signed up for the tourney putting better than $5,200 into the cash jackpot. Entries will be accepted up to May 16.

Boros Second in Champions Test Don January Wins Tourney

By BOB MYERS
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Don January breezed to victory in the $150,000 Tournament of Champions golf tournament and then discovered it wasn't so easy after all.

The current National PGA champ, who leads the touring pros into his native Texas home grounds at Dallas today, fashioned his second straight 69 Sunday, two strokes under par, for a 72-hole tournament course record of 276, eight under par.

But it wasn't until after he parred the last two holes that he learned charging Julius Boros had missed catching him by only one stroke and one roll of the ball with a sizzling final round 66 for 277.

"I didn't know what Moose was doing," January confessed later. "I was a little upset that I didn't know he was so close."

45-Foot Chip Shot

It could have been even closer — a tie or even defeat for January. On the final hole Boros faced a 45-foot chip for an eagle three which at that stage would have tied him with January, playing two holes behind.

The ball did just an inch or so from the hole. Boros got the putt for an eagle and possibly the difference between January's $30,000 and the $18,000 he got for second place.

Young Randy Glover of Florence, N.C., finished with a 68 for 279 and $12,000, while the sentimental favorite of many, Bob Goalby, after a disappointing 75, tied with Gardner Dickinson, 69, at 281.

Goalby, who a week before had captured the famed Masters, led January by one stroke entering the round. But, said the sporting Bob, where the ball had been rolling in, Sunday it didn't.

IOC Unit Recommends South Africa be Banned

By GEOFFREY ATKINS
LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — South Africa, whose readmission to the Olympic Games touched off a worldwide controversy, today is on the verge of exclusion from the Summer Games in Mexico City.

The executive board of the International Olympic Committee, meeting in an emergency session, bowed to enormous pressures Sunday and recommended that South Africa be banned from the Games.

The unanimous recommendation of the nine-man board, announced by a sorrowful Avery Brundage, went to the 71 members of the IOC for their action in a postal vote. It is almost certain that the full IOC will approve the board's recommendation.

Brundage, 80-year-old American president of the IOC, said that if a minimum of 36 members reject the recommendation, then South Africa still could be invited to participate in Mexico next October.

Highly Unlikely

But IOC officials said this is highly unlikely. They said that since the executive board was unanimous in "strongly recommending" members not to invite South Africa, it virtually banned South Africa from the Games.

But they conceded that, technically, it is remotely possible that a majority could reject the recommendation.

Brundage strongly indicated that the board's decision was very much influenced by racial riots in the United States following the assassination of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King.

Brundage said the meeting took into account "the violent disorders of the past 60 days throughout the world."

But this seemed a loophole through which the IOC was able to preserve the unity of the Olympic movement—and save the Mexico Games.

There seemed little doubt that the IOC's hand was forced by the threat of a large-scale boycott by some 40 nations, including the Soviet Union, if South Africa was allowed to compete.

South Africa, which has a national policy of apartheid, was banned from the 1964 France, in February, that a majority favored readmission.

Black African nations protested immediately on the grounds that while South Africa's team may be integrated, segregation still exists in South Africa as a national policy.

Detroit Shortstop Ray Oyler leaps over Pete Ward of the Chicago White Sox who was sliding into second base in the second game of Sunday's doubleheader at Chicago. # Tigers Win Pair, Stretch White Sox Loss String to 9

Senators Blank Oakland, 2-0; Twins Hand Yanks 5-2 Setback

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mayo Smith learned how to take his winning and losing streaks in stride 13 years ago. Eddie Stanky is still learning the hard way.

Smith's torrid Detroit Tigers ran their winning string to nine games Sunday with a 4-1, 4-2 doubleheader sweep over Stanky's frigid Chicago White Sox, who are still looking for their first 1968 victory after nine straight setbacks.

Streaks are nothing new to Smith. He managed the 1955 Philadelphia Phillies, who broke a 13-game losing skein by reeling off 11 victories in succession.

Stanky, however, has never before been on the short end of a long count. "Not unless you want to count last year, when we finished with a five game losing streak," said the White Sox skipper.

Elsewhere in the American League, Minnesota downed the New York Yankees 5-2, Baltimore slugged California 11-4, Cleveland whipped Boston 7-0 and Washington downed Oakland 2-0.

Hurls 5-Hitters

Right-handers Earl Wilson and Denny McLain breezed to complete game victories for the Tigers, who lost their season opener before streaking to the top of the American League standings. Wilson pitched a five-hitter in the opener and McLain scattered seven hits in the second game.

Pete Ward accounted for all of the White Sox' runs with a bases-empty homer in the first game and a two-run ninth-inning blast in the nightcap. The Chicago third baseman committed a costly error in each game, however, as Detroit pushed over six unearned runs in the doubleheader.

"They'll come out of it," Smith said of the White Sox' early tailspin. "They're a much better club than this. Everything's going against them now."

Worked Hard

Of the Tigers' fast getaway, Smith said: "This club worked hard all spring and now realizes that the early games are just as important as the September games. All I can hope is that we stay healthy."

Tony Oliva broke an 0-for-13 slump with a tie-breaking two-run homer in the fifth inning, leading the Twins past the Yankees, who had won three straight. Rod Carew laced four hits for the Twins and right-handers

South African Official Blasts IOC Action

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A South African Olympic official branded "a shocking miscarriage of justice" the International Olympic Committee's recommendation that South Africa be excluded from the Mexico City Games.

Frank Braun, president of the South African Olympic Committee, said the chances of South Africa winning the postal vote on the board's recommendation were not good.

South African Amateur Athletics Union chairman Matt Mare said the decision was against all the principles of justice and made a farce of democracy.

Strutz dropped his tee shot on No. 17 which is a par three, 123-yard hole. With Strutz on the round was Tom Goodrich, Don Jabas, John Dever and Sgt. Heath.

Strutz played nine holes and had a 34 which is one under par.

Lauded by Stanky Pete Ward Weathers Boo Birds' Attack, Socks 2 Home Runs

By JOE MOOSHIL
CHICAGO (AP) — Pete Ward's father was a professional hockey player. He played for Montreal. Pete Ward is a professional baseball player. He plays for the Chicago White Sox.

He proved he's a pro Sunday despite the fact the White Sox, off to a horrendous start with nine straight defeats, lost a doubleheader to Detroit 4-1 and 4-2.

Misplays by Ward at third base led to unearned runs in both games and the boo birds went to work on the Sox slugger who has committed six errors this season at third.

Ward's error led to four unearned runs in the second inning of the first game. The fans jeered his every move although he knocked in Chicago's only run with a fifth-inning homer.

Another error in the fifth inning of the second game helped the Tigers score two more runs and put the game out of reach. Instead of completely falling apart, Ward singled and then hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning to provide all of Chicago's runs for the day.

"We just have to break out with some hits and win one soon," said Ward after the game. "Every mistake we make now hits us in the face and, unfortunately, the mistakes have been mine."

"Nobody likes to hear boos," he continued. "But you can't really blame the fans. They come out to see big league baseball and we should give them big league baseball."

Manager Eddie Stanky, surprisingly calm as the losing streak continued, looked over at Ward and said, "You have to admire that man."

"They gave him a pretty good going over but he stayed right in there with his teeth," said Stanky. "He acted like a professional. He didn't embarrass himself by making any gestures. I'm proud of him."

Ward has hit three homers and knocked in five of the 11 runs the Sox have scored this season.

Carol Mann Cops Carling Crown by 10

Lopsided Victory Puts Her Second On Earning's List

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Carol Mann, the tall, talkative titlist in the Lady Carling Golf Tournament, thinks her lopsided triumph will be a big boost for the ladies' tour.

"Mickey Wright is the only girl that has ever dominated a tournament like this," Miss Mann said Saturday after taking the Lady Carling title by 10 strokes.

"I think my winning like I did will help make our game more attractive, because it proves that other girls can win big, too," the Baltimore blonde said.

"This should keep people from saying there is only one real player on our tour," added Miss Mann, who finished with a 70, was third at 213 in the Lady Carling, and Shirley Englehorn and Margie Masters tied for fourth at 214.

All members of the ladies' tour could take lessons from rookie Sandra Post on how to finish. The 19-year-old redhead from Oakville, Ontario, closed with a 31 in a final round 68 and called a two-stroke penalty on herself.

The young Canadian birdied the 10th, 11th and 12th holes, and parred the 13th-where she called the penalty when her caddy inadvertently tested the

Coach Denies Charges Texas A&M Recruiting Under NCAA Scrutiny

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Coach Gene Stallings of Texas A&M, football champions of the Southwest Conference, acknowledged Sunday that his school was under investigation of complaints that it had violated recruiting rules. But he categorically denied the charges.

He said Texas A&M had not offered inducements to athletes nor had it given tickets to athletes to sell.

"Texas A&M has done everything it can to live within the rules of the NCAA as set down by the Southwest Conference," he declared.

"I don't know of anything we're guilty of although I do know the investigator for the conference has checked us," he said.

He was commenting on a report that A&M was being charged with violations of the rules governing recruiting and on-campus conduct of the football program.

Howard Grubbs, executive secretary of the conference, admitted that his organization would consider some reports of inquiry conducted by the conference's investigative agency but "about whom and what, we cannot comment."

The conference holds its spring meeting at Fort Worth May 2, 3 and 4.

The Dallas Morning News said it had learned that numerous complaints had been sent in by a majority of the other conference schools. Stallings verified that complaints had been made.

The Orioles shot down California with a seven-run explosion in the ninth inning. Dave Johnson's two-run homer capping the rally. Curt Blefary drove in the first two runs in the ninth, reaking a 4-4 deadlock. Rick Reichardt slammed a three-run homer for the Angels.

Struck Out 10

Sam McDowell pitched a five-hitter and struck out 10 Red Sox as the Indians snapped Boston's four-game winning streak. Tony Horton and Jerry Brown all stroked two-run singles for the Indians and Duke Sims hit his fourth homer of the year.

The Senators rolled to their fourth straight victory behind the seven hit pitching of Camilo Pascual and Darold Knowles. Bill Bryan's fifth inning homer off Catfish Hunter was the big low for Washington, which has taken six of its last seven starts.

Blues Topple North Stars in Playoffs, 5-3

St. Louis Grabs 1-0 Lead; Schedule Hassle Develops

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The way the St. Louis Blues — free, if they're down by one man, that might just give them the edge.

It worked that way for the Blues Sunday as they beat the Minnesota North Stars 5-3 in the first game of the National Hockey League West Division playoff finals. The Blues went ahead with a three-goal outburst within about three minutes in the second period.

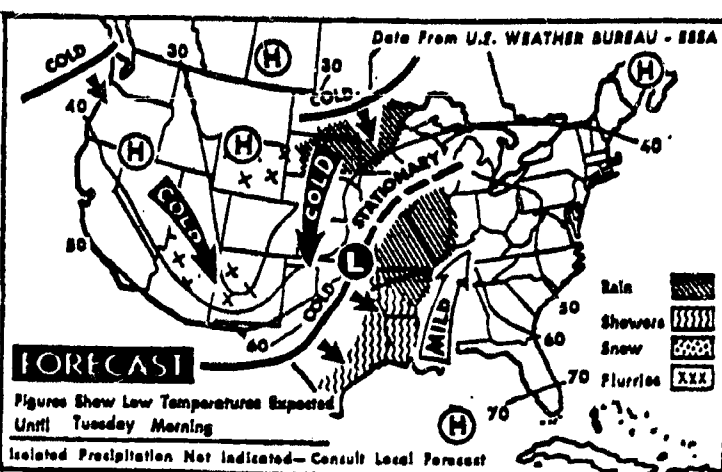

Bill McCreary scored the key goal in the flurry while the Blues were short-handed. Terry Crisp assisted on the goal. It was the second time in the playoffs the two had combined on a short-handed goal.

"We work for it," McCreary said. "Once we get a 2-on-2 situation at the start of a shift, we go for the net. Later in a shift we might lie back."

Aside from the loss, Minnesota Coach Wren Blair was upset about the playoff schedule he said the Blues have forced on the North Stars. He said Sidney Salomon III, Blues executive vice president, agreed to let the second game of the best-of-7 series be played in Minnesota only if the next three games were played in St. Louis.

An ice show in Minnesota forced the schedule hassle. Unless the North Stars played Monday in Minnesota, they would not have been able to play there until the sixth game. Blair had wanted the fourth game played Saturday in neutral Toronto instead of St. Louis.

The next two games of the East Division finals between the # Pierre Trudeau Is 'Swinger'; Which Way Will He Swing?

BY RAY ARGYLE
Toronto Telegram News Service
OTTAWA — Canada is moving toward a drastic revision of its foreign policy following the selection of Pierre Elliott Trudeau, colorful 46-year-old Quebec lawyer and economist, as Prime Minister to succeed L. B. Pearson.

Trudeau, whose Kennedyesque image has captured the imagination of Canadians like no other political figure in the country's history, promised the nation a "Just Society" when the ruling Liberals picked him to lead the party and the country at a Mardi Gras-like convention here.

Under Canada's constitutional system which makes it an independent nation in the British Commonwealth, Trudeau takes over as Prime Minister with the Liberals the largest party in Parliament. He will govern until the next general election which must be held by 1970.

A man with the reputation of a high - living bachelor, Trudeau's rise has been without precedent in Canadian politics. He won his first seat in Parliament in 1965 and had served in the federal cabinet (as justice minister) for less than a year, before defeating seven other candidates for the leadership.

Several Assets
His assets were his colorful personality, his disdain of traditional political clichés, his perfect bilingualism in a country two-thirds English-speaking and one-third French-speaking, and his appeal to younger voters. But many Canadians, including some loyal Liberals, expressed fear of possible left-wing radicalism in Trudeau's policies.

One cabinet minister, State Secretary Judy LaMarsh, flatly refused to serve under Trudeau and several others were expected to retire within the next few weeks. One of these would almost surely be Foreign Affairs Minister Paul Martin, 64, who is believed to disagree with Trudeau's plans to revamp foreign policy.

The new Prime Minister is expected to chart a more independent foreign course, which could lead to Canada's withdrawal from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), and support for Red China's admission to the United Nations. He also is expected to redefine Canada's role in the North American Air Defense agreement, under which the U.S. and Canada share the air protection of the continent.

In domestic affairs, Trudeau, who springs from a mixed French-Scottish family, indicated he would put the brakes on further wholesale welfare measures. The Canadian government is scheduled to introduce full-scale Medicare in several provinces July 1, and Trudeau said he believed this should be the last extensive welfare innovation. "There's been enough of this free stuff," he said.

Ticklish Issue
Trudeau said he would tackle the ticklish English-French issue by insisting the predominantly French-speaking province of Quebec was entitled to no more privileges than any other province. He agreed, however, that Canada should have a new constitution to replace the British North America Act which has spelled out the terms of union for Canada's Confederation for 101 years.

U. S. ownership of two-thirds of all Canadian industry worries Canadians, but Trudeau is critical of economic nationalism and of proposals to "buy back Canada."

Pledging that he would seek "new solutions to new problems," Trudeau has emphasized his concern for personal freedom, and has said this can be brought about through less restrictive laws and the redistribution of wealth through existing welfare measures.

As Justice Minister, he piloted through Parliament wholesale revisions of the criminal code, including easier laws for divorce and abortion and legalization of homosexual acts between consenting adults.

His last act before winning the leadership was the presentation of a "Charter of Human Rights" which, if all 10 provinces agree, will be written into a new constitution. It would give basic human freedoms the same inviolate status as in the U. S. Constitution, making it impossible for such freedoms to be restricted by legislative acts.

Addressing the Liberal convention, Trudeau said the world appeared to be entering "a golden age," but that even the wealthiest country in the world (the U. S.), was suffering from divisive policies. This was seen as a reference to the Vietnam war and the racial strife in the U.S.

Radical Change
The "Trudeaumania" which infected Canadians with the emergence of the ascetic looking, slightly built Montreal lawyer as Prime Minister, marks a radical change in attitude of Canadians toward their politicians.

Teen-age girls squealed and jumped at his public appearances, women glued themselves to their TV sets to watch his speeches and press conferences, and newspapers ran millions of words.

Pierre Trudeau grew up in a quiet country village near Montreal, while his lawyer father did well enough to leave an estate worth $5 million when he died in 1935.

The new Prime Minister obtained a lawyer's degree from a local church college, went on to study at the French-speaking University of Montreal, then to Harvard, London's School of Economics and Paris.

Canada did not have conscription for overseas service in World War II and Trudeau, like most young French Canadians, stayed out of the army, although he enlisted in the reserve.

Study in London
After finishing study in London, Trudeau embarked on a world tour in 1948. He was jailed in Yugoslavia for traveling without papers, was arrested in Jerusalem as an Israeli spy, and saw Shanghai four weeks before the Communists took over. He visited Moscow in 1952 (which caused him to be temporarily blacklisted by U. S. authorities), and returned to Red China in 1960.

Meanwhile, between periods of service to the Canadian government as an economics advisor, Trudeau was an intellectual leader in Quebec where "a quiet revolution" saw radical changes in French Canadian society in the 1950s. Out of the ferment which gripped the province, came today's separatist movement which contends that Quebec should be an independent French-speaking nation.

But Trudeau, a strong opponent of nationalism, backed as "idiots" for accepting U. S. nuclear arms on Canadian soil in 1962. He said he joined the Liberal party in 1965 because he thought he should take an active role in government.

As Canadians struggle to get used to the idea of a glamorous, wealthy and adventure-seeking Prime Minister (he skies, scuba dives and spent his Christmas holidays in Tahiti), the nation has reacted with mixed feelings of excitement and concern.

Canada has a swinging Prime Minister. But which way will he swing the country?

IRS Computers Human; Could Skip Slight Error

BY SYLVIA PORTER
Q. Now that you've filed your 1967 Federal income tax return, what are the chances that the Internal Revenue Service's mechanical brains will pick up even your slightest error?

A. Not as great as you have been led to think.

In the past couple of weeks, a flurry of scare stories have appeared in newspapers and magazines reporting that the IRS's computers are relentlessly whirling 24 hours a day, seven days a week and giving the impression that the computers will select millions of our just-filed returns for questioning — among them, of course, yours. The implication is that items of returns are being automatically fed into the giant system and that never before has an audit of your return been so likely.

This being the season for stories such as this, I've done my own investigating. And the facts are quite different from what these stories seem to suggest.

ITEM: Despite the use of advanced data processing equipment, the IRS is "almost sinking in an ocean of paperwork," says the Research Institute of America in a report privately circulated to its subscribers. The Research Institute adds:

"The computer system itself is in trouble. Because the demand for computer usage far exceeds the present IRS computer capability, individual returns with underpayments and overpayments of tax get processing priority. So-called 'full-paid' in individual returns received by the IRS in 1967 may not get properly entered in the IRS computer setup until 1969."

ITEM: The heart of the problem is that an overwhelming 105,000,000 returns were received and 49,000,000 refunds were made last year — a volume of paper the IRS didn't anticipate until 1970. This reflects the spectacular expansion of business and the upgrading of millions of workers to taxpaying levels.

ITEM: On top of this, the IRS has been receiving tens of millions of information returns on dividends and interest — and also a soaring number of complex individual returns.

ITEM: Then on top of all this in turn, the IRS computers have been uncovering more errors than ever before and thus its employees have been doing more corresponding with taxpayers than ever before.

This hardly adds up to the publicized picture of an efficient mechanical brain quickly ferreting out your new return and pouncing on your "little errors." Hardly. In fact, the IRS itself

Magician Doesn't Lose Everything in Wreck
KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The car of Jack P. Pyle, a Chicago magician, stalled on railroad tracks Sunday and three patrolmen tried to help.

They failed to flag a freight train in time and the car was knocked end-over-end, scattering trick cards and other magician's props.

Pyle pulled an unharmed white rabbit out of a black case in the wreckage.

has calculated that your chances of an audit are as follows:

If you are filing as an individual, about one in 25;

If you're filing as a corporation, about one in eight;

If you're filing an estate tax return, about one in four and a gift tax return, about one in 14.

But, cautions Leon Gold, chief tax expert of the Research Institute, your odds of an audit are much greater if your adjusted gross income is $25,000 or more; if you are in a trade or profession in which payment in cash is widespread practice; if you claim any deductions which appear abnormally big against average deductions for your income bracket; if you have substantial unreimbursed entertainment expenses. And expect your arithmetic to be checked.

CLINCHER: So scarce has IRS manpower become that the service has "temporarily suspended" its Taxpayer Compliance Measurement Program. These TCMP audits were exhaustive, time-consuming examinations of a small cross-section of returns designed to help the Treasury improve its audit-collection procedures.

The IRS no longer has manpower for these A to Z audits; it needs all its personnel just to keep up with regular exams.

Everyone knows the Blue Cross and Blue Shield identification card stands for protection that really protects. But even our basic programs can't always cover everything.

Modern health care costs are a fact of life. Extra charges, especially those associated with extended illness, can quickly add up to major unexpected bills... the kind that can cause severe financial strain.

It's possible to plan for these extras at a very good time... in advance, and at very little additional cost.

The low-cost Blue Cross and Blue Shield Major Medical plan provides each member and each of his dependents with $10,000 in additional benefits. Each person covered pays only the first $100 expense per calendar year. From that point on, Major Medical pays 80% of covered charges, up to $10,000. Subject to normal exclusions, this $10,000 can be used in two ways:

One: After benefits of the basic plan are exhausted.
Two: To pay for services often not covered by basic plans such as:

- Home and office calls by physicians
- Prescription drugs
- Private duty nursing
- Medical supplies
- Certain dental services
- Blood in excess of three pints
- Physical therapy
- Laboratory services in doctor's office

Clifford Adds His Prediction Of Withdrawal

Secretary Notes South Vietnam's Better Capability to Defend Itself

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford said today South Vietnam's increased fighting effectiveness will permit a leveling off of U.S. efforts in the war and "in due time" permit gradual troop reduction.

Clifford offered no timetable on possible American troop withdrawals but top military officials including Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, have raised the possibility this could begin in 1969.

Reports from Saigon indicate plans already are under way to place more South Vietnamese troops along the demilitarized zone.

Clifford made that assessment in a speech prepared for the annual membership meeting of the Associated Press.

It was his first public address since he became defense chief seven weeks ago.

Clifford said his assessment was based on results of a comprehensive review of American policies and programs in Vietnam, ordered by the President after the setbacks of the Communists' Tet offensive.

"Results Encouraging"

"The results were clear and the results were encouraging," Clifford declared. "They disclosed that Hanoi could not bend South Vietnam to its will by military force."

"We concluded that Americans will not need always to do more and more, but rather that the increased effectiveness of the South Vietnamese government and its fighting forces will not permit us to level off our effort—and in due time to begin the gradual process of reduction."

Clifford's speech echoed the theme he raised at his first Pentagon news conference April 11—that the administration goal is gradually to turn over the bulk of the fighting to the South Vietnamese.

Under this plan American troops might be withdrawn to certain unspecified reserve areas while South Vietnam's mettle was tested.

There are now 522,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam and the administration has set a ceiling of about 550,000 to be reached this year.

More M16 Rifles

Clifford said that as U.S. manpower contributions level off, military aid—including thousands of light weight, rapid-firing M16 rifles—to South Vietnam is rising.

Even so, Clifford said the United States still hopes for a

Chickens More 'In' Than Clams

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you find no chicken in your canned chicken soup, you can complain to the Department of Agriculture.

But if it's a case of no clams in clam chowder—well then you're fishing in murkier waters.

Testifying March 18 before a House Appropriations subcommittee, Agriculture Department representatives said new regulations require canned chicken soup to contain at least 2 per cent chicken meat by weight.

What about clam chowder? asked a seafood lover on the committee.

"That is Interior," replied the Agriculture official in testimony made public today.

A reporter following up that lead eventually found himself in touch with the Interior Department's Bureau of Commercial Fisheries. A spokesman, after checking, said there is no official "standard of identity" for canned clam chowder.

Second in 8 Days

American Killed In Korean Clash

SEOUL (AP) — Three North Koreans and one American were killed Sunday in the second major clash in eight days in the U.S. sector of the Korean front. Each side accused the other of starting the battle in which three Americans were wounded.

The U.N. Command demanded an investigation by a joint team of observers, as provided by the 1953 Korean armistice. The Communist side ignored a request for an observers' meeting today, a U.N. spokesman said.

The spokesman said a group of at least eight North Korean soldiers opened fire on a U.N. patrol in the 2nd U.S. Infantry Division area of the demilitarized zone.

The patrol returned the fire and intermittent shooting went on for two hours, the spokesman said. Three of the Communist soldiers who had crossed the military demarcation line were killed, but their bodies were apparently dragged back because they could not be found Monday, he added.

A North Korean broadcast said the American force was made up of "over 50 fully armed bandits" who slipped across the demilitarized zone and attacked a Communist guard post near Daiduksan.

The broadcast said "several armed bandits" were killed in the "fierce fire." It made no mention of North Korean casualties.

On Easter Sunday south of the Panmunjom armistice conference area, a Communist ambush killed two American and two South Korean soldiers and wounded two other Americans.

Another American was wounded Saturday while on patrol duty in the buffer zone, the U.N. Command said. Later Saturday, a U.N. observation team investigating the shooting was fired on.

Five Americans have been killed and 18 wounded since Jan. 21, when a North Korean commando group invaded Seoul in an attempt to assassinate President Chung Hee Park.

U.S. Army Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward arrived in Seoul today to succeed Rear Adm. J. V. Smith as chief U.N. delegate on the joint Military Armistice Commission.

Woodward, 50, of Suffolk, Va. has been assistant commander of the 2nd Armored Division in Ft. Hood, Tex.

U.S. Unsure Of Threat Due Today

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's army in Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces were placed on full alert today because intelligence reports indicate a big attack on the capital is near, Vietnamese sources reported.

A U.S. mission spokesman said, however, that "no alert or any warning has been issued to American personnel" in connection with the Vietnamese intelligence reports.

A U.S. military spokesman said American troops were on the same alert they've been on since the big enemy lunar new year offensive in February that ravaged Saigon and other major South Vietnamese cities. He added: "We're just normal."

More Cautious

Another source reported U.S. military police in Saigon had been told to be more cautious in the next few days and that Marine guards at the American Embassy were briefed on the Vietnamese reports. The embassy was attacked at the start of the Tet offensive.

The informant said the briefings were normal procedure that did not indicate U.S. officials were particularly worried.

Vietnamese officials at Cho Ray Hospital in Cholon, the Chinese section of Saigon hard hit in the previous offensive, told U.S. nurses there to go home. One nurse said the officials told them an enemy attack was expected late today or early Tuesday.

Vietnamese troops had been on a 50 per cent alert since the February offensive, with half of them allowed overnight passes. Now all troops are restricted to their bases.

Same Scale

The intelligence reports said the Communist attacks would be on the scale of those during the February offensive, when thousands of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops infiltrated into Saigon and attacked all over the city.

Officials reported Sunday that a North Vietnamese colonel had surrendered and turned over plans for another assault on Saigon by 10,000 enemy troops.

The colonel, the highest ranking defector to fall into allied hands, said the assault had been planned for today but some unknown circumstance had resulted in a delay.

Allied forces reported killing at least 135 enemy soldiers Sunday in six clashes within 40 miles of Saigon. Most were in areas where allied forces have been carrying on the biggest offensive of the war, Operation Complete Victory, to root out enemy forces in the 3rd Corps Area.

Bomb Panhandle

In the air war against North Vietnam, American fighter bombers returned in force to the skies over the southern panhandle Sunday, flying 151 missions.

The deepest penetration was by Navy fighters from the carrier Bon Homme Richard. They hit four trucks along a highway 22 miles north-west of coastal Vinh. The target was 168 miles north of the demilitarized zone and two miles south of the 19th parallel, the northern limit for the bombing set by President Johnson.

The resurgence of U.S. air power was facilitated by a break in the monsoon weather, which on Saturday limited the number of air missions to 94.

Powers Sign Pact To Aid Astronauts

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union, the United States and Great Britain today signed the agreement to rescue astronauts and return space equipment or parts that fall outside the country of origin.

The agreement was signed by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, U.S. Minister Emory C. Swank and British Charge d'Affaires Peter Dalton. Later, in London, Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce and Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Smirnovsky signed the British copy of the agreement.

Another ceremony was scheduled in Washington.

Court Affirms State Power Limits Upheld on Sexy Magazines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld today the power of states to keep sexy magazines from children.

At the same time, however, the court struck down a Dallas scheme to shield children from violent or sexy movies, on a finding that the particular scheme was unconstitutionally vague.

The two rulings provided the first test of laws that serve to control what children—but not adults—may see and read.

The ruling on magazines involved a 1965 New York state law, the movie case a 1965 city ordinance.

Speaking for a 6-3 court, Justice William J. Brennan Jr. said in the magazines case: "The well-being of its children is of course a subject within the state's constitutional power to regulate."

State legislatures, he said, are permitted by the Constitution to help parents assess "sex related" material.

Besides, he said for the majority, the state has an interest all its own in the well-being of its youth.

With Brennan in the majority were Chief Justice Earl Warren and Associate Justices John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart, Byron R. White and Thurgood Marshall.

The dissenters were Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas and Abe Fortas.

Harlan was the lone dissenter in the 8-1 ruling on the Texas case. That decision struck down an ordinance allowing a board of censors to classify movies as "not suitable for young persons."

Douglas, with Black agreeing in his remarks, said in the magazine case dissent: "As I read the First Amendment, it was designed to keep the state and the hands of all state officials off the printing presses of America and off the distribution systems for all printed literature." To do otherwise, Douglas said, would require a constitutional amendment.

Plane Crashes Near Ladysmith

Search for Cow Ends in Death for 2

LADYSMITH (AP) — A state highway patrolman and a Ladysmith contractor died when their two-seater airplane crashed among some trees during a Rusk County search for a cow Sunday.

The crash was witnessed by searchers on the ground. Rusk County authorities said the witnesses included a son of each of the victims.

Killed were James W. Moore Jr., 40, an off-duty state highway patrolman and son of the Polk County sheriff, and contractor Joseph M. Garstka, 39, both of Ladysmith.

Officials said the plane was flying low over some trees about three miles west of Ladysmith when it suddenly nosed into the trees.

Piloted Plane

Moore, a member of the State Highway Patrol for 12 years, was the pilot.

His flight in search of a stray

cow was his second of the day. On both trips, he had sighted the animal, and Garstka waved as a signal to ground searchers because the plane had no radio contact with the search party.

Authorities said the pair made a second flight after the ground party was unable to corner the stray.

The cow and a calf had wandered away from a barn Saturday. The calf was killed later when struck by a car.

Injunctions Anger CWA

Hope Fades for Strike Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The any possible progress" in the nationwide strike.

Workers defied back-to-work court orders today in two states in the fifth day of the nationwide telephone strike, and said the injunctions blocked chances for an early settlement.

"All hopes for a quick solution have faded," said CWA President Joseph A. Beirne, who denounced the court orders obtained by Southern Bell Telephone Co. in Alabama and Kentucky as "preposterous" and "anti-union."

'Go on Fighting'

Beirne said the injunctions indicated the Bell Telephone System, and its parent American Telephone and Telegraph Co., want "to go on fighting" the strike of nearly 200,000 union members in some 40 states, instead of settling the wage dispute at the bargaining table.

AT & T President Ben Gilmer reported meanwhile that telephone service in most areas was being maintained without undue trouble despite the first nationwide strike in 21 years.

"Management people who are filling in at the switchboard are gaining experience, and customer cooperation has been most gratifying," Gilmer said.

In addition to the union's angry reaction to the court injunctions, company reports of cables being cut and phone booths damaged, and union charges that company supervisors were driving trucks into pickets, further heated tempers in the strike.

Executive Session

Beirne called his 13-man union executive board into session Sunday to consider Gilmer's offer to explore a union proposal. But the meeting ended after eight hours "without any prospect for an immediate settlement," Beirne said.

No formal company-union talks are scheduled, he said.

Beirne, who issued his blast at the court orders in the midst of the top-level union meeting, said the injunctions "directly impede they called attempts by the Southern Bell Telephone Co. to intimidate them from respecting installers' picket lines.

"Southern Bell has obtained statewide injunctions in Alabama and Kentucky," the company said in Atlanta.

Phnom Penh, Warsaw Still Insisted on by North Vietnam

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam has, within a few weeks, "make people believe in U.S. completely changed its attitude," the paper said.

Johnson asked Thursday for the assurances that the conference site would be accessible to other governments involved in the war, that it have adequate and presumably secure communications, that it be open for news coverage and that it be a place where neither side would have a psychological or propaganda advantage.

The United States had opposed Phnom Penh for negotiations because it has no diplomatic relations with Cambodia and objected that Warsaw, a Communist capital, could not be considered neutral.

Nhan Dan said Secretary of State Dean Rusk's proposal of 10 other sites was an effort to

Board Advances Kindergarten Age At Wittenberg

WITTENBERG — Kindergarten admission age was advanced two months here by the board of education at its April 15 meeting. Board members said the measure was taken in compliance with findings of educational researchers on school readiness.

Although the new age requirement will not guarantee success in school it is thought the risk of pupil failure will be decreased, according to officials.

Parents of children who will be five years old between Oct. 2 and Dec. 1 may request a conference with the director of elementary education if it is felt the child is ready for kindergarten, authorities said.

Health records and birth or baptismal certificates are to be brought to the registration.

the Town of Harrison, and at the time, the Town of Menasha had not completed the project for its own residents.

Several at the meeting felt the facilities should be provided for the entire Town of Harrison, especially in the Lake Winnebago area. Stagnant water in ditches in the Waverly area were noted to Egger as being health hazards which they had tried to eliminate for years. The township's tax levy and lack of services frequently was mentioned at the meeting, with one resident proposing annexation to Appleton.

Kampo, directing his remarks to the proponent, said, "With their tax rate, in a few years it will be $100 a thousand."

The proponent replied, "We'll get there too. Just give 'em time."

Own System

It was noted that since there apparently was considerable interest in a larger area, it might be advisable for the residents in the area to have their own sewage collection system and treatment plant as well as water facilities, rather than to form a small sanitary district which would contract with the Town of Menasha.

Questions regarding costs of the project were raised to Kampo and Clarence Perry, of Perry-Carrington Engineering Corp., Marshfield, which is in charge of the High Cliff development sanitary district.

State and federal funds are available, with priority on need, it was explained. Several persons asked about joining the High Cliff Sanitary District; however, Perry did not encourage it, stating "it is too far away".

To form a sanitary district, 51 per cent of the property owners in the area involved must petition the Town of Harrison.

When the results of the joint meeting of the Harrison and Menasha town boards and sanitary commission are known, another meeting will be conducted and some definite steps taken.
